REVENUE FROM RED TRAIL IS $8,156,000.00

Officials of National Parks Highway Estimate This Amount Is Distributed

TRAVEL IS GROWING

Average 3,252 Cars Per Day Used Trans-Continental Highway, Report Says

Total revenue derived from various communities on the National Parks Highway (Red Trail) during the past tourist season is estimated by officials of the organization at $8,156,000, according to a report received by the Bismarck Association of Commerce.

Records kept at various bureaus and obtained by co-operation with state highway departments show astonishing figures on the money distributed by motorists making long distance journeys. The report sets out:

An average of 3,252 cars used the 2,572 miles of highway between Chicago and Seattle each day between May 15 and October 15, or a total of 487,000 car-days for the season. The total value in revenue to various communities along the highway is estimated at $8,156,000.

Checks made of the travel between Minneapolis and Wenatchee, Wash.

The Minnesota State Highway department figures show the average daily travel over the National Parks Highway was 293 foreign cars a day, or 27,900 for the season. At Robinsdale there were 371 cars a day; at Moorhead 116 a day.

From Fargo west to Valley City there was an average of 171 cars used the highway each day and the average at the Bismarck bridge is given as 85 cars.

Travel Divides

At Fallon, Nev., where the southern route (Yellowstone Trail) joins the National Parks Highway, the count was 65 cars a day for the National Parks Highway and 72 for the southern route. At Livingston, Montana, the count showed 133 cars a day, many of them diverting south at Billings through the eastern entrance to Yellowstone National Park. Spokane figures show a large increase over those of last years, an average of 377 cars a day being maintained throughout the season.

Mr. Coolidge's figures bring this up to a total of 56,610 cars for the season. As Yellowstone Park is the principal objective of the trans-continental traveler, the traffic, to a great extent, divides at this point and some of the eastern traffic is lost to the Northwest and Pacific Coast points, but the large amount of traffic from the coast is said to offset this.

Almost Four to Car. A survey of the travel indicates that each car carried an average of 3.4 to 4 persons and that the average daily expenditure of each person was about $5. The average for the camper was about $3.50 per day and of those stopping at hotels about $6 a day. This includes such items as gas and oil, repairs to the car, food, lodging, clothing and incidentals. The length of time on the road for the camper was found to be about twice that of the one who stopped in hotels. The average distance traveled was 150 miles per day.

Indications are, officials of the National Parks Highway say that 1924 will see a greater increase in automobile travel than in 1923. More than 12,000 inquiries for information and literature were received this year by the headquarters, a larger percentage coming from the eastern states.

Finances provided for the National Parks Highway organization have been meager, according to the report. Subscriptions in 1923 totaled $3,664.84, from states as follows: Washington, $720.50; Idaho, $40; Montana, $502; North Dakota, $1,617.25; Minnesota, $123.50 cash, other sources, $71.59.

CONGRESSMEN OF STATE ON BIG COMMITTEES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—The Republican Committee on Committees has completed all its tasks excepting to fill in the names of some of the minor committees, and it is now known that the three North Dakota representatives are all members of major committees.

Representative George M. Young is continued on the Committee on Ways and Means and ranks Number Four. Representative James H. Sinclair continues to serve on the Committee on Agriculture and ranks Number Eight.

Representative O. B. Burtness has been promoted to the great committee on Interstate Commerce, one of the three largest committees of the House of Representatives.

It is doubtful whether any state in the Union has, according to the size of its delegation, representation on the committees of the House equal to North Dakota.

KILLING OF WOMAN IS SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

By NEA Service. Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 12.—Another mysterious murder is added to this city's list of unsolved crimes. Kidnaped by an assailant who took her away in an automobile, Mrs. Helen Wheelchel, 22, was murdered early the morning of Nov. 28.

Her body was found between the railroad tracks under a bridge near the city's outskirts, by railroad workmen.

Mrs. Wheelchel, a widow, left her father's home early in the evening preceding the murder. Shortly after midnight a loud scream was heard in a street near her home.

A neighbor looked from his window and saw a man driving a touring car away. He held one hand on the wheel and the other, the witness said, held some other person. The woman's hat was found in front of the witness' house. On the bridge, above the spot where her body was found, police picked up a broken strand of pearls. Nearby were the wheels tracks of an automobile, turned toward the guard rail of the bridge. Those, and a few footprints, are the only clues.

COOLIDGE SAID SYMPATHETIC TOWARD STATE

Particularly Interested in North Dakota and Minnesota, Says J. A. Kitchen

MESSAGE APPROVED

President Coolidge is especially sympathetic toward Minnesota and North Dakota and, if his view toward the Northwest is exaggerated it is to the extent that conditions agriculturally are worse than they really are, according to Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor J. A. Kitchen, who has returned from attending a meeting of Commissioners of Agriculture of the various states with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Mr. Coolidge, he said, was very cordial in his greeting and in a speech to the commissioners summing up agricultural conditions he expressed desire to use the force of the government as far as possible to relieve the situation. However, the president does not believe that price-fixing is a sound method.

The general view of Washington officials, Mr. Kitchen said, was that agricultural ills cannot be cured by legislation. They also do not feel kindly toward measures proposing additional funds to be loaned to farmers, believing that too much credit is one of the ills of agriculture today. Commissioners of Agriculture from other states, he said, reported a belief that many of the ills will have to be cured by farmers themselves, in increasing production of the amount of vegetables and other products and decreasing the amount of canned goods used on the family table.

Mr. Kitchen discussed immigration and labor conditions with Secretary James J. Davis and other officials. He said the department believed that the three percent limitation on immigration was too strict, but that laws should be so changed that selection of immigrants would be made abroad and the quotas of immigrants from northern and western Europe "increased" while the quotas from southern and southeastern Europe were lessened.

The message of President Coolidge, which he heard, was what was generally expected in Washington, except that few expected the president to be so blunt in his declaration on the soldier's bonus. Mr. Kitchen said. He added that the frankness of the president in giving his views upon the problems before the country won him great respect in Washington.

WOULD SHOW PEOPLE RULE

Mussolini Voluntarily Ends Dictatorship

Rome, Dec. 12.—To show the world that Italy is ruled by the will of the majority of the Italian people and to obtain a parliament which coincides with the wishes of the electorate, Premier Mussolini, with the consent of the cabinet, obtained the signature of the king to a decree closing the present session of the chamber—an act which inevitably leads to dissolution and new elections. Dissolution will probably take place the early part of January and in that event, elections will be held in April.

The premier's bold step ends voluntarily his own dictatorship and re-establishes the government along the usual constitutional lines.

INCORPORATED

Articles of incorporation filed with the Secretary of State included: American Concrete Railway Tie Co., Marquette; capital stock; Marquette, Slope Co.; incorporators, H. A. Ekblom, Henry O'Connell, M. C. Newstrom.

MRS. HELEN WHEELCHEL

POLICE HOLD NEGRO FOR 24 AX MURDERS

Birmingham Police Think They Have Man Who Has Terrorized the City

IDENTIFIED BY TWO

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 12.—Police and county officials expect to gather further evidence today concerning Fred Glover, negro, with at least a part of the series of 24 ax murders that have occurred in Birmingham.

Glover has been identified by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sparks as the negro who hit Mrs. Sparks over the head Sunday afternoon Mrs. Sparks is recovering from her wounds.

The finding of a bloody hatchet and a pistol in Glover's room and his criminal record add weight to the belief of officers that they have arrested the right man. It is pointed out also that while he was in prison on another charge sometime ago there were no ax attacks.

"We are sure we have the right man and we think we are going to be able to place the responsibility for the other attacks that have been made all along," said Solicitor Jim Davis.

Doubts were still expressed by Birmingham citizens that the right man had been arrested. So many fearless arrests have been made in the past that there are many skeptical of Glover's connection with the crime which besides the 24 killed has included 23 who have been seriously injured. The last death occurred Monday when J. D. Hayward succumbed to injuries from an attack on November 29 while returning from work.

KILLS WIFE'S DANCE ESCORT

Jealous Husband Fatally Wounds Youth in Louisville

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 12.—Eugene Coates, who was shot by John George at a dance here shortly after midnight, died in a hospital early today. George killed himself after shooting Coates and probably fatally wounding Mrs. George with whom Coates had been dancing. That George was crazed with jealousy because his wife had refused to dance with him and was dancing with Coates was the theory of investigators who sought a motive for his act. Mr. and Mrs. George were married five years ago and have a two-year old daughter. George was 28 years old.

KLAN LAWYER SLAYER TO TRIAL

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 12.—Philip E. Fox, former publicity director for the Ku Klux Klan, went on trial here today on a charge of murder growing out of the death of William S. Coburn, attorney for the Simmons faction of the Klan. Effort to obtain a jury was started immediately after the preliminaries were disposed of.

The Ku Klux Klan issue was not injected by either side in the selection of the jury. Indications were the hearing of testimony would get under way late today.

M'ADOO FLAYS PRESIDENT FOR HIS MESSAGE

Candidate for Democratic Nomination Calls it Counsel for "Dormancy"

Declares for Adjusted Compensation to Service Men of the World War

Los Angeles, Dec. 12.—President Coolidge's message to Congress was labeled "a counsel for dormancy" and his opposition to a bonus for ex-service men characterized as a summary dismissal of "just claims for consideration" in an address by William Gibbs McAdoo before the Democratic Luncheon club and Women's Democratic League here today.

The former director-general of railroads derided the president's proposal for a voluntary consolidation of big systems of transportation as "a seven-year itch for reduced freight and passenger rates with no assurance of relief at the end of the trial," telling his hearers that what is needed is not seven years of delay but action.

"McAdoo's message," said Mr. McAdoo in part, "is largely a counsel of dormancy. Nowhere is there a stimulating call to Congress. The world is in commotion and vital domestic problems press upon us for solution, but no effective program is offered for the alleviation or correction of domestic ills nor is counsel given for invigorating international policies which will reopen world markets for our surplus products, tend to promote economic stability or encourage peace between nations."

"The most affirmative part of the President's message is the recommendation of tax reduction. The Democratic party has stood consistently for the lowering of the American tax and should co-operate without regard to partisan considerations in an effort to ease the tax burden."

"The President opposes any increase in the pay of the soldiers who fought the war to victory. Although a great reduction in the tax burden can be made and a reasonable compensation proposed for soldiers and sailors can be provided at the same time, the President is determined that justice shall not be done to the war veterans. Their just claims for consideration are summarily dismissed, but the President is strong for the maintenance of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill which has favored trade, monopolies and combination, in restraint of trade, a subsidy estimated at more than $3,000,000 per annum, or twice as much as it will take to pay the soldiers bonus in cash. For privilege every thing; for the defenders of the country nothing."

The committee also decided to recommend to the 1924 convention that women be given an equal status with men as committee members and that one man and one woman from each state be chosen from each state to serve on a basis of parity as national committeemen.

Full speed ahead was the order given today to the committee of the Association of Commerce in charge of preliminary arrangements for the state-wide corn contest for the Hanna cup by the directors of the Association of Commerce.

The committee, composed of George F. Will, chairman, H. S. Dobler, J. F. French, Carl Nelson and P. K. Fields, will set the time and exact place and draft all rules of the contest, which will embrace every county in the state.

In addition to an expensive silver cup to be given by L. B. Hanna of Fargo there will be cash prizes.

PIRRITANO IS SENTENCED

Benidji, Minn., Dec. 12.—Leonardo Pirritano, slayer of four persons, pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder here this morning and was sentenced by Judge T. W. Stanton to a life term in the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

The United States public health service was organized 125 years ago under the name of the marine hospital service for the medical and surgical care of sailors.

CONVENTION OF G. O. P. WILL BE HELD JUNE 10

Cleveland, Ohio, Is Formally Selected as City For Republican Publication Convention

CHANGE DELEGATES

South Wins Victory, and Delegations Will Restore Strength of 1920

Washington, Dec. 12.—Cleveland was formally selected as the 1924 convention city of the Republicans. Choice of the Ohio city, virtually certain since the Coolidge campaign managers indicated their preference for it, was made final at a meeting of the Republican National Committee. The date of the convention was fixed as June 10.

The vote for the convention city was Cleveland 239; San Francisco 101; Des Moines 91. Then on motion of Congressman Crocker of California the selection of Cleveland was made unanimous.

SOUTH WINS

Washington, Dec. 12.—There will be nearly 1,100 delegates in the 1924 Republican convention compared to 984 in 1920 under a resolution adopted today by the Republican National Committee virtually restoring the old representation of southern states.

Southern interests, fighting for increased representation, won a spirited battle against the reduced southern representation proposed under the reapportionment. National committeemen from the south and negro delegations who protested the reapportionment succeeded in having the committee upset the reapportionment made in 1921 and restored practically all of the south's representation.

The committee at the same time, however, decided to largely increase the power of the northern states by providing that three additional delegates at large should be given to all states carried by Harding in 1920.

RE-APPORTIONMENT VOTED

Washington, Dec. 12.—By the vote of the 1924 convention delegates of 1924 will assemble in Cleveland on June 10 and its delegate strength will be apportioned virtually on the old time basis of full representation for the south as well as the north.

A carefully drafted plan to curtail the voting power of those southern states which belong to the Democratic solid south was overturned today by the national committee just before election of the time and place for the convention had been made final.

In 1921 the reapportionment program had been given the approval of the committee and the reversal was voted today over the protest of those who declared a reconsideration would be interpreted by the country as an effort to increase the delegate of states likely to cast their vote for President Coolidge.

The committee also decided to recommend to the 1924 convention that women be given an equal status with men as committee members and that one man and one woman from each state be chosen from each state to serve on a basis of parity as national committeemen.

CORN SHOW TO GO AHEAD, IS A. O. C. ORDER

Committee to Begin Drafting All Rules and Regulations of the Contest

Full speed ahead was the order given today to the committee of the Association of Commerce in charge of preliminary arrangements for the state-wide corn contest for the Hanna cup by the directors of the Association of Commerce.

The committee, composed of George F. Will, chairman, H. S. Dobler, J. F. French, Carl Nelson and P. K. Fields, will set the time and exact place and draft all rules of the contest, which will embrace every county in the state.

In addition to an expensive silver cup to be given by L. B. Hanna of Fargo there will be cash prizes.

LICENSE IS CANCELLED

The license of Oscar Lebrun to conduct a pool room at Langdon has been cancelled because, it was alleged by inspectors, he allowed minors to play and sold snuff and cigarettes to minors. It is announced at the state licensing department. The application of William Zimmer of Manville, who has been operating without a license, was denied on the allegation that a deputy inspector found moonshine in his place together with cigarettes.

CHILLY BLASTS FROM CANADIAN PROVINCES END REMARKABLE PERIOD

Weather Bureau Reports Show Fall Weather Never Equalled But Once For Modification in the History of the Weather Bureau — November Averaged 10.3 Degrees Temperature Daily Above Average

The weather overlords threatened today to put an end to the most remarkable autumn and early winter weather Bismarck has ever experienced, from the standpoint of high temperatures, continued sunshine and absence of storms.

With a high wind blowing today, and a forecast for colder weather here Thursday, and a cold wave in the eastern part of the state, it appeared that winter was really starting. The wind velocity was given as 32 miles an hour.

At Calgary, Canada, it was 4 above this morning, and the same temperature was recorded at Edmonton and Lander, Wyoming, while it was 3 above at Prince Albert. The lowest in Bismarck last night was 23 above, and it was 22 above at Williston.

The mean daily temperature during the period, September 1 to December 12, 1923, shows an excess of 5.5 degrees daily, the highest continuous average in the climatological history of the Bismarck weather station. During November the temperature averaged 10.3 degrees above the normal and was with but one exception the highest of record for that month.

"Taking into consideration all elements that go to make delightful fall weather, there has never been an autumn with so much continued sunshine, high day and night temperatures and absence of storms," said a weather bureau statement today.

BANK CASHIER ADMITS GUILT, IS SENTENCED

Devils Lake, Dec. 12.—Howard Disher, cashier of the closed bank at Olmstead, was sentenced late yesterday to seven and a half years in the state prison when he pleaded guilty to embezzlement by making false reports to bank examiners, forgery and uttering false instruments.

FRAZIER, LADD VOTES THROWN TO DEMOCRAT

South Carolina Senator With in One Vote of Gaining Cummins' Place

Washington, Dec. 12.—Although there was a break in the ranks of the supporters of Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, the Republican insurgent leader, the senate remained in deadlock today on the first ballot for election of a chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Senator Cummins of Iowa and Senator Smith of South Carolina were tied at 40 votes each, while LaFollette received three votes each. Senators Brookhart of Iowa and Frazier of North Dakota, Republicans, and Shipstead of Minnesota, voted for Smith but there also was a break in the Democratic ranks with Senator Smith of Maryland voting for Cummins. Senators Howell and Norris of Nebraska and Ladd of North Dakota, Republicans, voted for LaFollette. On the second ballot Smith fell but one vote short of election, receiving 39 votes to 39 for Cummins and two for LaFollette. Bruce continued to vote for Cummins while Ladd joined the insurgent group voting for Smith.

REBELS WIN VICTORY OVER FEDERAL FORCE

Former Governor of Pueblo Pursued by Rebels, Is Declaration

Vera Cruz, Dec. 12.—Revolutionary headquarters here announced that rebel forces under the command of General S. Garcia have defeated and dispersed the federal troops which were defending Capotlan, a town on the border of the states of Vera Cruz and Puebla. J. Sanchez, former governor of Puebla, who was at the head of the Obregon forces, is being pursued by the rebels.

HUERTA ASSUMES RULE

New York, Dec. 12.—Albert Macarena, Mexican consul general in New York City, announced today that he had received a telegram purporting to come from Adolfo De La Huerta, rebel leader, informing him that he has assumed command of the government. The consul said he disregarded the message which directed him to take orders from De La Huerta.

GAINS STRENGTH

Nogales, Ariz., Dec. 12.—The revolutionary movement on the west coast of Mexico has attained great proportions, according to advices received here today and had spread to Mazatlan, Sinaloa, where the garrison has divided. A report that several revolutionary generals were executed following a skirmish in Sinaloa is being investigated here.

NEW COURT HOUSE READY

Beach, N. D., Dec. 12.—Except one department, all officers of Golden Valley county have now moved their offices into the new $40,000 two-story brick court house which has just been completed here.

PICTURE NOT AS DARK AS IT IS DRAWN

C. L. Mosher of Federal Reserve Bank Tells Rotarians of Agricultural Survey

FAILURES BEEN SMALL

Slightly Over 10% in This State—Other Sections Much Worse off, He Declares

North Dakota is essentially sound but there is a great need of a better business morale in the estimation of Curtis L. Mosher, assistant federal reserve bank agent, who spoke to the Rotarians at their weekly luncheon at the Hotel McLeod today. He has just finished most comprehensive economic survey of the Northwest in which he traveled from 6,000 to 7,000 miles by automobile. In refutation of the rumors being circulated that the farmers are irretrievably involved financially, he declared that the reverse was true and that statements made in the past by certain North Dakota citizens could not be substantiated by the facts. He found that there were less than 3,000 farmers who were being foreclosed upon and that the eventual number in the state would be less than 4,000. Many of the names he said should not have followed farming as a vocation as they were unskilled.

There are more than 74,000 farmers in the state he said who will carry through, many of them while not in good condition financially he said would be helped by credit sources which are being taxed to spread over the rural indebtedness so as to bring the Northwest safely through the present crisis. He found that slightly under 800 farmers had actually abandoned their farms and that in most cases the community was benefited as these men were chronic failures as farmers. In comparison to the aggregate number of farmers in the state only a small percentage had taken advantage of the bankruptcy act he said. Percentage of failures in the state he said was slightly more than ten percent. In Montana he said the rate was much higher.

He urged a better sentiment toward the banking institutions. He said that the percentage of farm failures was not great when compared to other lines of business. He said that banks, merchants and other lines of endeavor had suffered as severely as the farmer which was of course a most natural result. Without a success on the farms in industry launched and the merchant and banker had to suffer with the rest. He praised Governor Nestos for his speeches of optimism in the east and the efforts of the administration to discount false reports that are being circulated upon Northwest conditions.

Of a survey of 35,000 farmers he said that it was found in this state that 85 percent of them were efficient and competent to weather the storm.

He praised the bankers of the state for their attitude in the crisis and said that the community itself by its own actions could assist greatly. Few banks were closed he said through dishonesty of officials and that in most cases of closed banks the bankers had spent their all to avert disaster.

Urging the citizens to put their money in sound institutions and take it from places of concealment where it performed no economic service, he made an earnest plea for common sense in solving the problems that confront the Northwest. P. R. Fields gave an excellent talk upon business methods as laid down by the Rotary code of ethics.

SALESMAN FOR TRUCK COMPANY IS IN HOSPITAL

Charles Bassett of Minneapolis Seriously Injured; Frank Weinstein Hurt

CHILDREN ESCAPE

Auto Crashes Into Another Loaded with Children on Mandan-Bismarck Road

Charles Bassett, aged about 50, of Minneapolis, traveling salesman for the Garford Motor Truck Company, is in a critical condition in the Mandan hospital and Frank Weinstein of Mandan, Inter-city bus and taxi line operator, is also in the hospital with two fractured ribs as a result of an automobile accident on the Bismarck-Mandan road east of the new N. P. crossing on the Mandan side. The crash occurred about 5 o'clock last evening.

Weinstein, driving a Hudson speedster, crashed into a Ford which was turned off of the road suddenly in front of him, he said. The Ford remained upright but the Hudson rolled over three times.

Bassett has a fractured right upper jaw and cheek bone, severe cuts about the head and the nose structure is injured. The attending physicians declared his condition critical, according to word from Mandan today.

Honus Weinstein, occupying a rear seat in the Hudson, was unhurt. Frank Weinstein was pinned under the wheel and sustained severe bruises in addition to two fractured ribs, while Bassett was badly crashed.

The Ford was driven by William Messler and several children were reported in it at the time of the crash. He was turning off the highway over to the former crossing of the railroad tracks north of the present viaduct. Weinstein swore to avoid the accident, according to information obtainable, but a front wheel of his car struck the Ford, turning his car over. The Ford was turned upright, and no one in it was injured.

Mrs. Bassett was notified of her husband's injury, and was to come from Minneapolis today.

STATE WINS CREDIT FIGHT SINCLAIR SAYS

Intermediate Credit Bank Rules Will Be Altered, According to Congressmen

Fargo, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—An adjustment has been authorized by the federal farm loan bureau which will permit more liberal aid to North Dakota banks and agricultural credit companies by the federal intermediate credit bank of St. Paul, according to a telegram received by The Associated Press here from J. H. Sinclair, Congressman from the Third North Dakota district.

"Owing to the fact that many complaints have been received here regarding the federal intermediate credit bank of St. Paul and unjustly rejected loans tendered by North Dakota banks and agricultural credit banks," the message from Mr. Sinclair stated, a representative of the federal farm loan bureau was sent to St. Paul to go over the situation. The result is that an adjustment has been authorized which will permit more liberal aid. Officials suggest that all parties whose loans have been rejected resubmit the same to the St. Paul bank."

BIG POLICIES ARE PLANNED BY KIWANIS

Fargo, Dec. 12.—William C. Green, John Pollock and J. A. Pierce have returned from Chicago, where they attended Kiwanis international council, composed of all international officers and district governors, as the governor-elect of the district comprising North and South Dakota and Minnesota. The council met to discuss policies of the work outlined for 1924.

Mr. Pollock attended a meeting of the international-convention program committee, which made preliminary arrangements for the 1924 convention at Denver, June 15 to 19, inclusive. It is expected that at least two special trains will carry delegates from this district to the Denver meeting, as the St. Paul club, which is bidding for the 1925 convention, already has reservations for one full train.

Mr. Pierce, president of the Fargo Kiwanis club, attended a conference devoted to the work of the underprivileged child, one of special activities of Kiwanis international.

TWO INJURED IN AUTO CRASH; ONE MAY DIE

REVENUE FROM RED TRAIL IS
$8,156,000.00

Officials of National Parks Highway Estimate This Amount Is Distributed

Average 3,252 Cars Per Day
Used Trans-Continental Highway, Report Says

Total revenue derived from various communities on the National Parks Highway (Red Trail) during the past tourist season is estimated by officials of the organization at $8,156-000, according to a report received by the Bismarck Association of Commerce.

Records kept at various bureaus and obtained by co-operation with state highway departments show astonishing figures on the money distributed by motorists making long distance journeys. The report sets out:

An average of 3,252 cars used the 2,672 miles of highway between Chicago and Seattle each day between May 15 and October 15, or a total of 487,000 car-days for the season.

The total value in revenue to various communities along the highway is estimated at $8,156,000.

Checks made of the travel between Minneapolis and Wenatchee, Wash.

The Minnesota State Highway department figures show the average daily travel over the National Parks Highway was 198 foreign cars a day, or 27,900 for the season. At Rob-insdale there were 371 cars a day;
at Moorhead 116 a day.

From Fargo west to Valley City
there was an average of 171 cars used the highway each day and the average at the Bismarck bridge is given as 85 cars.

Travel Divides.

At Fallon, Mont., where the southern route (Yellowstone Trail) joins the National Parks Highway, the count was 65 cars a day for the National Parks Highway and 72 for the southern route. At Livingston, Montana, the count showed 133 cars a day, many of them diverting south at Billings through the eastern entrance to Yellowstone National Park.

Spokane figures show a large increase over those of last years, an average of 377 cars a day being maintained throughout the season.
Here season's figures bring this up to a total of 56,610 cars from all roads.

As Yellowstone Park is the principal objective of the trans-continental traveler, the traffic to a great extent, divides at this point and some of the eastern and Pacific Coast points, but the large amount of traffic east from the coast is said to offset this.

Almost Four to Car.

A survey of the travel indicates that each car carried an average of 3.4 to 4 persons and that the average daily expenditure of each person was about $5. The average for the camper was about $3.50 per day for those stopping at hotels about $6 a day. This includes such items as gas and oil, repairs to the car, food, lodging, clothing and incidentals.

The length of time on the road for the camper was found to be about twice that of the one who stopped in hotels. The average distance traveled was 160 miles per day.

Indications are, officials of the National Parks Highway say, that 1924 will see a greater increase in automobile travel than in 1923. More than 12,000 inquiries for information and literature were received this year by the headquarters, a larger percentage coming from the eastern states.

Finances provided for the National Parks Highway organization have been meager, according to the report.

Subscriptions in 1923 totaled $3, 654.84, from states as follows: Washington, $720.00; Idaho, $60; Montana, $562; North Dakota, $1,817.25; Minnesota, $123.50 cash, other sources, $71.69.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—The Republican Committee on Committees has completed all its tasks excepting to fill in the names of some of the minor committees, and it is now known that the three North Dakota representatives are all members of major committees.

Representative George M. Young is tee on Interstate Commerce, one of the three largest committees of the House of Representatives.

It is doubtful whether any state in the Union has, according to the size of its delegation, representation on the committees of the House equal to North Dakota.

KILLING OF WOMAN IS SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

By NEA Service.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 12.—Another mysterious murder is added to this city's list of unsolved crimes.

Kidnaped by an assailant who took her away in an automobile, Mrs.
Helen Wheelchel, 22, was murdered early the morning of Nov. 28.

Her body was found between the railroad tracks under a bridge near the city's outskirts, by railroad workmen.

Mrs. Wheelchel, a widow, left her father's home early in the evening preceding the murder. Shortly after midnight a loud scream was heard in a street near her home.

A neighbor looked from his window and saw a man driving a touring car away. He held one hand on the wheel and the other, the witness said, held some other person.

The woman's hat was found in front of the witness' house. On the bridge, above the spot where her body was found, police picked up a broken strand of pearls. Nearby were the wheels tracks of an automobile, turned toward the guard rail of the bridge. Those, and a few footprints, are the only clues.

MRS. HELEN WHELCHER

COOLIDGE SAID
SYMPATHETIC TOWARD STATE

Particularly Interested in North Dakota and Minnesota, Says J. A. Kitchen

MESSAGE APPROVED

President Coolidge is especially sympathetic toward Minnesota and North Dakota and, if his view toward the Northwest is exaggerated it is to the extent that conditions agriculturally are worse than they really are, according to Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor J. A. Kitchen, who has returned from attending a meeting of Commissioners of Agriculture of the various states with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Mr. Coolidge, he said, was very cordial in his greeting and in a speech to the commissioners summing up agricultural conditions he expressed desire to use the force of the government as far as possible to relieve the situation. However, the president does not believe that price-fixing is a sound method.

The general view of Washington officials, Mr. Kitchen said, was that agricultural ills cannot be cured by legislation. They also do not feel kindly toward measures proposing additional funds to be loaned to farmers, believing that too much credit is one of the ills of agriculture today. Commissioners of Agriculture from other states, he said, reported a belief that many of the ills will have to be cured by farmers themselves, in increasing production of the amount of vegetables and other products and decreasing the amount of canned goods used on the family table.

Mr. Kitchen discussed immigration and labor conditions with Secretary James J. Davis and other officials. He said the department believed that the three percent limitation on immigration was too strict, but that laws should be so changed that selection of immigrants would be made abroad and the quotas of immigrants from northern and western Europe increased while the quotas from southern and southeastern Europe were lessened.

The message of President Coolidge, which he heard, was what was generally expected in Washington, except that few expected the president to be blunt in his denunciation of the soldier's home. Mr. Kitchen added that the frankness of the president in giving his views upon the problems before the country won him great respect in Washington.

WOULD SHOW PEOPLE RULE

Mussolini Voluntarily Ends
Dictatorship

Rome, Dec. 12.—To show the world that Italy is ruled by the will of the majority of the Italian people and to obtain a parliament which coincides with the wishes of the electorate, Premier Mussolini, with the consent of the cabinet, obtained the signature of the king to a decree closing the present session of the chamber—an act which inevitably leads to dissolution and new elections. Dissolution will probably take place the early part of January and in that event elections will be held in April.

The premier's bold step ends voluntarily his own dictatorship and re-establishes the government along the usual constitutional lines.

M'ADOO FLAYS
PRESIDENT FOR HIS MESSAGE

Candidate for Democratic Nomination Calls it Counsel for "Dormancy"

Declares for Adjusted Compensation to Service Men of the World War

Los Angeles, Dec. 12.—President Coolidge's message to Congress was labeled "a counsel for dormancy" and his opposition to a bonus for ex-service men characterized as a summary dismissal of "just claims for consideration" in an address by William Gibbs McAdoo before the Democratic Luncheon club and Woman's Democratic League here today.

The former director-general of railroads derided the president's proposal for a voluntary consolidation of big systems of transportation as "a seven-year itch for reduced freight and passenger rates with no assurance of relief at the end of the trial," telling his hearers that what is needed is not seven years of delay but action.

"The President's message," said Mr. McAdoo in part, "is largely a counsel of dormancy. Nowhere is there a stimulating call to Congress.
The world is in commotion and vital domestic problems press upon us for solution, but no effective program is offered for the alleviation or correction of domestic ills nor is counsel given for investigating international policies which will reopen world markets for our surplus products, tend to promote economic stability or encourage peace between nations."

"The most affirmative part of the President's message is the recommendation of tax reduction. The Democratic party has a stood consistently for it since the signing of the Armistice and should co-operate without regard to partisan considerations in an effort to ease the tax burden."

"The President opposes any increase in the pay of the soldiers who fought the war to victory. Although a great reduction in the tax burden can be made and a reasonable compensation proposed for soldiers and veterans, the President is determined to provide the same time and the President is determined that justice shall not be done to the war veterans. Their just claims for consideration are summarily dismissed, but the President is strong for the maintenance of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill which has favored trusts, monopolies and combinations in restraint of trade, a subsidy estimated at more than $3-million per annum or twice as much as it will take to pay the soldiers bonus in cash. For privilege everything, for the defenders of the country nothing."

"We are sure we have the right man and we think we are going to be able to place the responsibility for the other attacks that have been made all along," said Solicitor Jim Davis.

Doubts were still expressed by Birmingham citizens that the right man had been arrested. So many fruitless arrests have been made in the past that there are many skeptical of Glover's connection with the crime which besides the 24 killed has included 23 who have been seriously injured. The last death occurred Monday when J. D. Haywood succumbed to injuries from an attack on November 29 while returning from work.

KILLS WIFE'S DANCE ESCORT

Jealous Husband Fatally Wounds Youth in Louisville

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 12.—Eugene Coates, who was shot by John George at a dance here shortly after midnight, died in a hospital early today.
George killed himself after shooting
Coates and probably fatally wounding Mrs. George with whom Coates had been dancing. That George was crazed with jealousy because his wife had refused to dance with him and was dancing with Coates was the theory of investigators who sought a motive for his acts. Mr. and Mrs.
George were married five years ago and have a two-year old daughter.
George was 28 years old.

KLAN LAWYER
SLAYER TO TRIAL

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 12.—Philip E.
Fox, former publicity director for the Ku Klux Klan, went on trial here today on a charge of murder growing out of the death of William S.
Coburn, attorney for the Simmons faction of the Klan. Effort to obtain a jury was started immediately after the preliminaries were disposed of.

The Ku Klux Klan issue was not injected by either side in the selection of the jury. Indications were the hearing of testimony would get under way late today.

CONVENTION OF
G. O. P. WILL BE HELD JUNE 10

Cleveland, Ohio, Is Formally Selected as City For Republication Convention

CHANGE DELEGATES

South Wins Victory, and Delegations Will Restore Strength of 1920

Washington, Dec. 12.—Cleveland was formally selected as the 1924 convention city of the Republicans.
Choice of the Ohio city, virtually certain since the Coolidge campaign managers indicated their preference for it, was made final at a meeting of the Republican National Committee. The date of the convention was fixed as June 10.

The vote for the convention city was Cleveland 29; San Francisco 10; Des Moines one. Then on motion of Committee member Crocker of California the selection of Cleveland was made unanimous.

SOUTH WINS

Washington, Dec. 12.—There will be nearly 1,100 delegates in the 1924 Republican convention compared to 984 in 1920 under a resolution adopted today by the Republican National Committee virtually restoring the old representation of southern states.
Southern interests, fighting for increased representation, won a spiri-tized battle against the reduced southern representation proposed under the reapportionment. National committeemen from the south and negro delegations who protested the restoration succeeded in having the committee amend the reapportionment made in 1921 and restored practically all of the south's representation.

The committee at the same time, however, decided to largely increase the power of the northern states by providing that three additional delegates at large should be given to all states carried by Harding in 1920.

Washington, Dec. 12.—(By the
A. P.)—The Republican national convention of 1924 will assemble in Cleveland on June 10 and its delegate strength will be apportioned virtually on the old time basis of full representation for the south as well as the north.

A carefully drafted plan to curtail the voting power of those southern states which belong to the Democratic solid south was overturned today by the national committee just before election of the time and place for the convention had been made final.

In 1921 the reapportionment program had been given the approval of the committee and the reversal was voted today over the protest of those who declared a reconsideration would be interpreted by the country as an effort to increase the delegate of states likely to cast their vote for President Coolidge.

The committee also decided to restore the voting power of the south women will be given an equal status with men as committee members and that one man and one woman from each state be chosen from each state to serve on a basis of parity as national committeemen.

CORN SHOW TO GO AHEAD, IS A. OF C. ORDER

Committee to Begin Drafting All Rules and Regulations of the Contest

Full speed ahead was the order given today to the committee of the Association of Commerce in charge of preliminary arrangements for the state-wide corn contest for the Han-cups by the directors of the Association of Commerce.

The committee, composed of George
F. Will, chairman, H. S. Dobler, J. P.
French, Carl Nelson and P. R. Fields, will set the time and exact place and draft all rules of the contest, which will embrace every county in the state.

In addition to an expensive silver cup to be given by L. B. Hanna of Fargo there will be cash prizes.

PIRRITANO
IS SENTENCED

Benidji, Minn., Dec. 12.—Leonardo Pirrritano, slayer of four persons, pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder here this morning and was sentenced by Judge T. W.
Stanton to a life term in the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

CHILLY BLASTS FROM CANADIAN PROVINCES END REMARKABLE PERIOD

Weather Bureau Reports Show Fall Weather Never Equalled
But Once For Moderation in the History of the Weather

Bureau — November Averaged 10.3 Degrees Temperature Daily Above Average

The weather overlords threatened today to put an end to the most remarkable autumn and early winter weather Bismarck has ever experienced, from the standpoint of high temperatures, continued sunshine and absence of storms.

With a high wind blowing today, and a forecast for colder weather here Thursday, and a cold wave in the eastern part of the state, it appeared that winter was really starting. The wind velocity was given as 32 miles an hour.

At Calgary, Canada, it was 4 above this morning, and the same temperature was recorded at Edmonton and Lander, Wyoming, while it was 8 above at Prince Albert. The lowest in Bismarck last night was 23 above, and it was 22 above at Williston.

The mean daily temperature during the period, September 1 to December 12, 1923, shows an excess of 5.5 degrees daily, the highest continuous average in the climatological history of the Bismarck weather station. During November the temperature averaged 10.3 degrees above the normal and was with but one exception the highest of record for that month.

"Taking into consideration all elements that go to make delightful fall weather, there has never been an autumn with so much continued sunshine, high day and night temperatures and absence of storms," said a weather bureau statement today.

BANK CASHIER ADMITS GUILT, IS SENTENCED

Devils Lake, Dec. 12.—Howard Disher, cashier of the closed bank at Olmstead, was sentenced late yesterday to seven and a half years in the state prison when he pleaded guilty to embezzlement by making false reports to bank examiners, forgery and uttering false instruments.

FRAZIER, LADD VOTES THROWN TO DEMOCRAT

South Carolina Senator Within One Vote of Gaining Cummins' Place

Washington, Dec. 12.—Although there was a break in the ranks of the supporters of Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, the Republican insurgent leader, the senate remained in deadlock today on the first ballot for election of a chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Senator Cummins of Iowa and Senator Smith of South Carolina were tied at 40 votes each, while LaFollette received three votes each. Senators Brookhart of Iowa and Frazier of North Dakota, Republicans, and Shipstead of Minnesota, voted for Smith but there also was a break in the Democratic ranks when Senator Smith of Maryland voting for Cummins. Senators Howell and Norris of Nebraska and Ladd of North Dakota, Republicans, voted for La-Follette. On the second ballot Smith fell but one vote short of election, receiving 37 votes to 39 for Cummins and two for LaFollette. Bruce Conrad of Missouri and William Ladd joined the insurgent group voting for Smith.

Vera Cruz, Dec. 12.—Revolutionary headquarters here announced that rebel forces under the command of General S. Garcia have defeated and dispersed the loyal troops which were defending Capotlan, a town on the border of the states of Vera Cruz and Puebla. J. Sanchez, former governor of Puebla, who was at the head of the Obregon forces, is being pursued by the rebels.

New York, Dec. 12.—Albert Maz-carenas, Mexican consul general in New York City, announced today that he had received a telegram purporting to come from Adolfo de La Huerta, rebel leader, informing him that he has assumed command of the government. The consul said he disregarded the message which directed him to take orders from De La Huerta.

GAINS STRENGTH

Nogales, Ariz., Dec. 12.—The revolutionary movement on the west coast of Mexico has attained great proportions, according to advices received here today and had spread to Matamoros, Sinaloa, where the garrison has divided. A report that several revolutionary generals were executed following a skirmish in Sinaloa is being investigated here.

Auto Crashes Into Another Loaded with Children on Mandan-Bismarck Road

Charles Bassett, aged about 50, of Minneapolis, traveling salesman for the Garford Motor Truck Company, is in a critical condition in the Mandan hospital and Frank Wetzstein of Mandan, inter-city bus and taxi line operator, is also in the hospital with two fractured ribs as a result of an automobile accident on the Bismarck-Mandan road east of the new N. P. crossing on the Mandan side. The crash occurred about 5 o'clock last evening.

Wetzstein, driving a Hudson speedster, crashed into a Ford which was turned off of the road suddenly in front of him, he said. The Ford remained upright but the Hudson rolled over three times.

Bassett has a fractured right upper jaw and cheek bone, severe cuts about the head and the nose structure is injured. The attending physicians declared his condition critical, according to word from Mandan today.

Frank Wetzstein, occupying a rear seat in the Hudson, was uninjured.
Frank Wetzstein was pinned under the wheel, and sustained severe bruises in addition to two fractured ribs, while Bassett was badly crushed.

The Ford was driven by William Messler and several children were reported in it at the time of the crash. It was turning off the highway front of him, he said. The Ford remained upright, and no one in it was injured.

Mrs. Bassett was notified of her husband's injury, and was to come from Minneapolis today.

CREDIT FIGHT
SINCLAIR SAYS

Intermediate Credit Bank Rules Will be Altered, According to Congressmen

Fargo, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—An adjustment has been authorized by the federal farm loan bureau which will permit more liberal aid to North Dakota banks and agricultural credit companies by the federal intermediate credit bank of St. Paul, according to a telegram received by The Associated Press here from J. H. Sinclair, Congressman from the Third North Dakota district.

"Owing to the fact that many complaints have been received here recently that the federal intermediate credit bank of St. Paul has unjustly rejected paper tendered by North Dakota banks and agricultural credit banks," the message from Mr. Sinclair stated, a representative of the federal farm loan bureau was sent to St. Paul to go over the situation. The result of the adjustment has been authorized which will permit more liberal aid. Officials suggest that all parties whose loans have been rejected resubmit the same to the St. Paul bank."

BIG POLICIES ARE PLANNED
BY KIWANIS

Fargo, Dec. 12.—William C. Green, John Pollock and J. A. Pierce have returned from Chicago, where they attended Kiwanis international council, composed of all international officers and district governors, as the governor-elect of the district comprising North and South Dakota and Minnesota. The council met to discuss policies of the work outlined for 1924.

Mr. Pollock attended a meeting of the international convention program committee, which made preliminary arrangements for the 1924 convention at Denver, June 15 to 19, inclusive. It is expected that at least two special trains will carry delegates from this district to the Denver meeting, as the St. Paul club, which is bidding for the 1925 convention, already has reservations for one full train.

Mr. Pierce, president of the Fargo Kiwanis club, attended a conference devoted to the work of the underprivileged child, one of special activities of Kiwanis international.

WILL FIGHT RATE BOOST ON HARD COAL

Minnesota Alarmed by Increase in Through Rail Hauls on Anthracite

Minneapolis, Dec. 11.—The proposed increase in through rail rates on anthracite coal from the principal Pennsylvania mines to Minneapolis and other Northwest points will not go into force unchallenged. C. A. Bruce, secretary of the Twin City coal exchange, announced today. Mr. Bruce said the exchange will file a formal protest against the new rate schedule with the Interstate Commerce Commission by December 20, the final day for protesting. The freight rate on anthracite, it changed, will mean an increased transportation cost of $1.50 on a short-ton of hard coal, Mr. Bruce said. Several other Northwestern organizations are planning to protest the proposed rail rate, according to Mr. Bruce.

SLAYER NEAR AN ESCAPE

Timely Arrival of Janitor Frustrates Attempt

Benidji Minn., Dec. 11.—The timely arrival of the courthouse janitor early today frustrated an attempt to escape by Leonard Pirritano, slayer of four persons at Kelleher, November 15 last, from the county jail here. Given an hour, Pirritano would have made good his escape through a hole in the brick wall, Sheriff J. R. Johnson said. Pirritano had removed a number of bricks from the wall directly under the window sill of his cell on the second floor and if given more time the hole would have been sufficiently large to permit his freedom. The prisoner started to work for his freedom sometime after 2:30 a. m., according to Sheriff Johnson who visited the slayer's cell at that time.

SEE INCREASE IN PRICES OF SLOPE LAND

The county commissioners of Hettinger county have taken a step toward putting the Slope country right before the country by issuing a handsome, illustrated booklet called "Successful Farm Ownership." The county is boasted as the "corn country," declaring that government statistics "based on records of over 20 years show the district to be especially favored for the raising of corn, four out of five years showing a period of 100 to 110 days between killing frosts. This is about the same as southern Minnesota and

U. S. SHIPS GO TO HONG KONG

Ordered There Because of Chinese Conditions

(By the Associated Press) Manila, P. I., Dec. 11.—Five destroyers of the American Asiatic fleet left here this afternoon bound for Hong Kong. The vessels were ordered to the Chinese ports in connection with the situation at Canton and that vicinity. The destroyers, Peary, flag ship of the squadron, of the 43rd division of the Asiatic fleet headed the detachment. They are expected to arrive at Hong Kong Thursday morning.

ASK CHANGE OF JUDGE IN BANK CASES

Affidavits of Prejudice Are Filed Against Judge C. M. Cooley in Fargo

Fargo, Dec. 11.—Affidavits of prejudice against Judge C. M. Cooley and the Cass county district court were filed with Clerk of Court Ralph Trevel today by several defendants in connection with the failure of the Scandinavian-American Bank case. The affidavits were filed precluding the entering of pleas by several of the defendants. The state asked for an opportunity to be heard on the question and Judge Cooley fixed 10 a. m. Friday as the time for hearing the argument. Affidavits this morning were filed by attorney John Burke in behalf of H. J. Hagen, P. R. Sherman, N. G. Egeen and J. J. Hastings. Affidavits in behalf of F. W. Guthrie and L. P. McAnany and Weston were to be filed late today.

Kellogg's Bran is prepared to do one thing—AND DO IT WELL!

Kellogg's Bran will permanently relieve constipation, mild or chronic. It is scientifically prepared for that purpose. It is ALL BRAN, therefore it has the necessary bulk to assure results. Foods with a small bran content cannot afford permanent relief. When your physician or friends advise you to eat Kellogg's Bran, you follow on for the purpose of eliminating a dangerous clogging-up and toxic condition of your system. You can afford to take half-way measures! Think of the lost time and the dangers of illness you are daily dodging! What you must have is real bran—KELLOGG'S BRAN, and if you will eat it regularly each day you will become a different person within a week or so. Kellogg's Bran, with its natural bulk, sweeps, cleanses and purifies. It not only gives relief, but it regulates the bowels. Every member of your family should eat it—every day—at least two tablespoonfuls in chronic cases as much with each meal. Kellogg's Bran mixed with a hot cereal, or cook it with hot cereals, adding two tablespoonfuls of Bran for each person. Other popular ways are to sprinkle Kellogg's Bran on hot or cold cereals or to eat it as a cereal with hot milk. You can make delicious bakery products with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran is not only nationally sold in grocery stores, but can be had in individual packages in first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant. Be certain to eat Kellogg's Bran daily for health's sake!

REVOLUTION SUPPRESSED

Movement in Portugal Has a Short Life

Lisbon, Dec. 11.—(By the A. P.)—A revolutionary movement broke out in Lisbon last night but was promptly put down. The energetic action of the government obliged the rebellious element to surrender and order was restored without bloodshed. Later, the President visited the Lisbon barracks and naval arsenal. Conditions today are normal.

COLLINS IS ON MARKET

Chicago White Sox Would Trade or Sell Him

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Eddie Collins, premier second baseman of the American League and captain of the Chicago White Sox, is for sale or trade and may become manager of the Washington club for the 1924 season. Frank Chance, newly appointed manager of the White Sox, made the startling announcement last night that Collins had been cast into the player market. This announcement was the most important to come from the convention of more than 1,200 baseball leaders who assembled here yesterday to set their house in order for the 1924 season. Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, while not denying that he had talked over the prospects of landing Collins, intimated that he was in a receptive mood. He declined to make a flat statement. Collins, if he is not traded, will be one of the last two players who remained on the club who worked in 1920 as a result of the world's series scandal of 1919. The big convention opened yesterday with half a dozen meetings, including a session of the board of arbitration of national association of minor league which threshed out the dispute over the presidency of the Pacific Coast League.

W.A. PINKERTON, CRIMINAL FOE, DIES IN WEST

One of First Noted American Criminologists to Advocate Humane Methods

HEADED AN AGENCY

Los Angeles, Dec. 12.—William Pinkerton, one of the owners of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency died here yesterday at the Hotel Biltmore.

One of the first noted American criminologists to advocate and practice humanitarian methods in dealing with felons, William Allen Pinkerton, head of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, was credited with having returned more safe blowers and bank thieves than any other man in the country.

Primarily a thief-taker, Mr. Pinkerton spent more than 50 years of his life running down criminals of all classes, yet he always stood ready to proffer a helping hand to the unfortunate malefactor whose repentance was genuine and whose desire to reform was sincere.

Knowing criminals and their methods, their weaknesses and their human side as perhaps no other man of his time had known them, Pinkerton never sympathized with the theorist and the sentimentalist who sought to reform desperadoes, hunted down by kind words, but he did know that a little help and a little encouragement at the right time and in the right place were frequently more effective than imprisonment. Scores of former criminals scattered over the country are now living honest and useful lives as a result of the reform measures practiced by the arch enemy of their criminal days.

William Allan Pinkerton and his brother, Robert A., succeeded to the business of their father, Allan Pinkerton, who died in 1884 after founding the detective agency which bears his name. This was before the powerful armor-plated vaults, electrically operated and protected, were in their hey-day. Determined to specialize in bank protection, William Pinkerton enlisted the support of leading financial institutions of the country and then made a detailed study of the men who were preying upon them. He warned noted bank robbers as they were arrested: "You leave my people alone and I'll follow you to the end of the earth."

This warning made a deep impression upon many of the most dangerous thieves, and after a few convictions had been obtained there was a noticeable decrease in the number of bank robberies. Some scoffed at the big detective's warning but most of them were caught in time.

William A. Pinkerton was born in Dundee, Illinois, April 7, 1846. He was educated in public and private schools and then ready for college entered Notre Dame University. At the age of 20 he married Margaret S. Ashling of Adrian, Michigan, who died in 1886. Two daughters, Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins and Mrs. William C. Pullman were born to them. Mr. Pinkerton made his home in Chicago.

WHEAT MAKES SOME UPTURN

Better Outlook on Reparations Helps Market

Chicago, Dec. 12.—Owing largely to a better outlook for settlement of German reparations and for stabilizing German finances wheat scored a moderate upturn in price today during the early dealings. At first, however, the market was of a hesitating character as a result of declines in Liverpool quotations. On the other hand domestic receipts were small and there was some buying on the part of Northwestern houses that yesterday were sellers. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to one-fourth to three-eighths cents lower with December, $1.023-4 to $1.03, and May, $1.08-1-8 to $1.08 1-4, was followed by a general advance.

Subsequently offerings proved to be light and no important reaction in values took place. The close was firm, one-fourth to three-eighths cents to one and one-eighth cents higher; December, $1.041-8 and May, $1.09-1-8 to $1.09 1-4.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK. So. St. Paul, Dec. 12.—Cattle receipts, 2,600. Generally slow, about steady with weak undertone. Common and medium grade steers and yearlings, $4.50 to $9. Bulk early sales, $7 and down. Butcher she-stock, including two loads of fed heifers, $4.50. Heifers upward to $5.50. Canners and cutters, $2 to $2.75. Bologna bulls generally steady. Choice heavies, $4.25. Bulk common and medium offerings, $3.25 to $4. Stockers and feeders slow. Few early sales. Best feeders early, $6.50. Bulk largely, $4.50 to $5. Calves, 2,400. Around 25 cents higher. Best lights, $3 to $3.75. Bulk to packers, $2.

Hog receipts, 27,000. Strong to 15 cents higher. Good and choice 100 to 250-pound averages mostly, $6.25 to $6.35. Top, $6.40. Lightweights mostly, $6.10 to $6.15. Packing sows, $5.50 to $5.75. Pigs steady. Bulk, $4.

Sheep receipts, 14,200. No early sales. Bidding, $12.25 on desirable lambs, or mostly 25 cents lower. Fleecy native ewes quotable, mostly, $5 to $6.50.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR. Minneapolis, Dec. 12.—Flour 10 cents lower. In carload lots family patent quoted at $6.05 to $6.30 a barrel in 98-pound cotton sacks and shipments, 87,021 barrels. Bran, $25 to $27.

"Covered Wagon" To Depict Great Adventure of Pioneer Old West

James Cruze, who produced "The Covered Wagon," which comes to the Auditorium this week is an Indian—not by birth nor, necessarily by inclination, but by adoption. In other words, he has been made a chief of the Arapahoe tribe, with the tribal name of Standing Bear. He is a full-fledged brother of the tribe, with the right to sit at all council meetings. When Mr. Cruze and "The Covered Wagon" company established Camp Cruze in Southern Utah, where most of the picture was made, there were about 1,000 Indians engaged. Among them were Arapahoes, Shoshones, Navajos and Crows. One old chief of the Arapahoes became very friendly with Mr. Cruze and finally asked the director if he would consent to be adopted into the tribe.

The ceremony of the adoption was most impressive. The Indians were preternaturally solemn over the whole affair, and Mr. Cruze, realizing what it means to them, was deeply impressed. All the Arapahoes in the camp were gathered in a circle for the rites, with the whites on the outside as spectators. Ed Farlow, a rancher acted as interpreter, and read the statement from the Indian council.

ings of value to sell at $10.50 and above stimulated by Christmas demand after strong to 25 cents higher.

Sheep receipts, 22,000. Fat lambs mostly 15 to 25 cents lower. Sheep generally steady.

ROY RESCUED BY CHUM FROM HOLE IN RIVER
Horace, N. D., Dec. 12.—Theophile Brunelle, 13, saved the life of Herman Walla, 12, when the latter skated into a hole on the river.

The boys were skating about half a mile south of Horace where they had been warned that the ice was not safe. Herman skated into one hole and came up in another three yards from the first. Theophile grabbed him by the hair and then by the arm and pulled him out. Many other children were skating nearer Horace, where the ice was better. Theophile is the son of Mr. and

ASK CO-EDS GO OWN WAY

Grand Forks, Dec. 12.—"Jack and Jill went up the hill"—But, at the University of North Dakota a resolution passed Monday declares that they can't go together to the athletic games of the school. This action was taken by the men's conference, student government body of the institution. It requests the men of the school not to accompany lady friends to the athletic games and asks the women to refuse to attend the games in company with an escort.

The purpose of the action is to better the "rooting" support of the varsity teams.

'OH, OH CINDY' WINS APPLAUSE AT AUDITORIUM

Legion Service Shows Provides Good Music, Dancing and Much Comedy

PLAYS AGAIN TONIGHT

"Oh, Oh Cindy," the American Legion musical comedy, occupied the front lines at the Auditorium last night. It will hold the position again tonight, with the zero hour set for 8:15 o'clock.

From its point of vantage, the cast of 130 captured the audience by melting them with tuneful music, bewitching costumes and pretty girls, and by launching a new attack on the stage. With George Russ leading in the onslaught. And like well drilled soldiers the players shone particularly in dancing, with never a hobble in the whole show.

The play moved with dispatch, particularly in the second act. It was a medley of color, music and artistry, opening at the rehearsal of a modern show on a metropolitan stage and in the twinkling of an eye being whisked to Fairyland, and back to Fairyland.

The magic of the Orient, with its melody, its mysticism, and romance being fused into the songs and dances of the play. The scenery and the costumes were excellent. When the group of beautiful "Follies" girls appeared on the stage, it almost seemed like a style show, so many gorgeous and new gowns, wraps, and costumes being presented.

While the leading actresses kept the thread of the story winding through the play by their bright bits of dialogue, their assistants with special songs and dances did much to complete the effect of brilliancy and variety.

Effective scenes—One of the most effective scenes in the play was the human aeroplane. In this large cast was grouped in a new way and gave the audience a pleasant bit of good singing. While this scene stood out, there were many others of equally delightful entertaining features.

Mrs. Flo Miller Steen as Cindy, the leading lady in the "Follies" gave a splendid interpretation of her part. She was charming and lived up to her reputation of a very temperamental actress.

Support was given by the enthusiastic support was Verne Goddard. He might be said to have won his way to the hearts of his auditors by his ability as an interpreter of song. Miss Ida Iverson appeared at her best as a sparkling actress who really enjoyed herself during the entire evening.

Maude Anglin as Mildred St. Clair, Grace Evans as Persis Nielson, Margaret Fogarty as Rae Roslyn, and Mary Cayou as Gracie Martin, the "Big Four" of the play were delightful little actresses upon the stage, and Leonard Miller, Luther Monson, Thomas Thorsdson, the "Three Bears" gave good support. Al Bloomer as Ferdinand Gotrox, promoter of the Follies, played a rather important part in his artistic fairy costume, appeared a fairly good mother of unique character. He never allowed a scene to become too serious. He took a leading part and kept the audience in a state of suppressed merriment during the entire evening.

And when he went off the stage as fun maker the Robinson Crusoe group with M. Keen and Ben appeared. Miss White, Cindy's maid, portrayed her part with humor and skill. Aiding her was Archie McPhee, Saturday, and Cliff Hubbard, Friday.

The music written for the play was of sparkling variety. One of the hits of the evening was "Oh, Miss White" sung by Cliff Hubbard, Esther Monson and the carnival chorus. Mrs. Melvin Miller, Ida Iverson, Vera Goddard, and Melvin Steen, Leonard Miller, Luther Monson, and Thomas Thorsdson made a big hit with their song "Come Along to the Movies" with pantomime portrayal of a scene in movieland. For the black group "I want a Chance to Beat That Drum" was a hit.

The group who appeared as features during the evening were a very pleasant part of the entertainment. In this group appeared the following:

SHOW GIRLS—Genevieve Boise, Gwendolyn Jones, Evaline George, Lucille Fisher, Edna Jensen, Clara Sperry, Wallie Dirlam, Esther Schultz, Mary Hassell, Ellen Hall, Lillian Roberts, Clara Hultberg.

PONIES—Esther Katz, Beatrice Clark, Mabel Rigler, Lillian Rigler, Catherine Andriest, Bertha Rigler, Alice Larson, Marie Corder, Catherine McLaughlin, Mildred Boyd.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. R. McHenry, the noted medical specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how cures from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, cauterizers, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method without consequence to be and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. The book is sent post-paid free to persons afflicted with piles or other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McHenry, 2125 Parkview Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.

Finale Is Excellent

The grand finale was another bit in which an opportunity was given for a number of youthful singers to appear at their best while Miss Esther Taylor as Le Crier, head of the "Follies" handled a difficult part with a debonair abandon that helped to put the scene over big. Lillian Sundland and Alberta Carmi made charming little "Girls in Blue," Celia Hagen, Gayle Hawk, Ruth Staley, and Ruth Wynkoop appeared in a well interpreted dance and song while Mabel Breen and Marjorie Bolton looked like real little Irish girls. Ruth Halverson, Edna Halverson, Joy Ellingson, and Jean Faltland gave a pleasing portrayal of demure little quaker maids; Esther Katz and Alice Larson made dashing halas and Lillian Rigler interpreted "Smiles" with her usual talent; Anna Marie Manning caused a ripple of pleasure to pass through the audience when she advanced slowly down the stage singing "My Mother's Romance." The presentation given the Japs by Mabel Rigler, Bertha Rigler, Mildred Boyd, and Marie Corder was delightfully refreshing as was that of the Orientals by Wallie Dirlam, Catherine Andrist, Edna Jensen, and Catherine McLaughlin. Velma Nupen, Marlys Lahr, and Dorothy Savage made charming little messengers.

By means of the group of "songs of yesterday and today" the large cast was brought back upon the stage in a simple manner for the grand finale with the tableau effect of "Starlights" composed of Irma Logan, Helen Collins, Esther Staley, Leota Hendershott, Mae Walker, Carol McClure, Iva Palmer, Marian Lester, Mary Parsons, and Agnes Parsons made an impressive conclusion for the sparkling extravaganza.

The auditorium orchestra, with Mrs. Arthur Bauer as accompanist furnished music for the evening and Marie C. Richter, had charge of the rehearsing and staging of the play.

COMPERS OUTLINES WHAT LABOR WILL FIGHT FOR

BY SAMUEL COMPERS.

President, American Federation of Labor.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The American Federation of Labor has no elaborate legislative program to be presented to the Congress now in session but it is vitally interested in certain great public questions which must come to the attention of that body during its present short session. One of these is the question of immigration. Another is the question of an amendment to the constitution to prohibit child labor. A third question concerns the injunction process as used in industrial disputes and the usurpation of power by courts in connection with such proceedings.

The immigration question must be dealt with because the present law on the subject expires June 30, 1924. The wage earners of our country, in common with practically all of the thinking people, form a unit in holding that there should be no relaxation of our present restrictive measures. We do not want a horde of unassimilated alien immigrants. We do not want a horde of immigrants who will threaten either our standards of living or our institutions.

Entanglements

Apparently the one thing that can make proper immigration legislation is the entanglement with it of proposals which are neither wise nor necessary. If tactics of that character are attempted the people of the United States may know that politics is at work to defeat the public will.

In the case of child labor legislation two successive Supreme Court decisions have lifted two great obstacles of Congress to free the children of America by statute enactment. The only road which may now be pursued is to amend the constitution.

Under the leadership of the American Federation of Labor 17 national organizations have joined in the Permanent Conference for the Abolition of Child Labor and this permanent conference is the sponsor of a proposed amendment to meet the requirements of American childhood. Our federation will seek of Congress the enactment of legislation that will for all time put at rest the usurpation of power by courts in injunction and contempt proceedings when such contempt are committed outside of the presence of the court.

In the gallery of the House of Representatives, among others, was Mrs. Woodrow Wilson (lower). She was the center of interest among the listeners when President Coolidge read his maiden speech before the joint session of Congress.

How to Stop Sour Stomach

Great Deal Possible.

If the present session of Congress, immersed in purely political issues with a national campaign in view, can be induced to deal satisfactorily with the three vital issues, a great deal will have been accomplished.

Of course the American Federation of Labor will throw its weight into the scales for progress in connection with any measure that offers hope of progress and it will oppose any measure that seeks to entrench reaction. Labor will exert itself to the utmost to support any constructive program for relief for the farmers.

Chronic With Many People—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Bring Quick Comfort—Sweeten and Stop Acid, Sour Bloating and Such Dyspeptic Distress

When the fact is considered that even careful people, those who follow diet rules, get attacks of indigestion, no argument is needed to recommend the best means of relief. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are used by lawyers, doctors, teachers, by business men, high officers, society women, industrial workers, clerks, and the worst abused stomachs in the world, those of a host of travelers.

For thirty years people have learned that they may eat what they like or what is set before them, and no matter what the condition of the stomach, if due to dyspepsia, these wonderful tablets stop gasiness and sour risings, they give the stomach the alkaline effect which overcomes acidity and thus they either avoid distress after eating or else they quickly relieve it. Be fortified. Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store and arm yourself against indigestion.

It is, however, under no illusions, because those who observe politics closely understand thoroughly that a great many congressmen will be much more interested in campaign material than in the enactment of constructive legislation.

TUNNEY HOLDS HIS TITLE

Beats Harry Greb in Slashing Contest in New York

New York, Dec. 11.—Gene Tunney of Greenvale, N. Y., successfully defended his American light heavyweight title last night in a bristling 15-round match with Harry Greb of Pittsburgh at Madison Square Garden. Tunney's body attack earned him the judges' verdict despite a whirlwind of rally by Greb in the last round.

Tunney forced the fighting from the start with his frequent and spectacular rallies by Greb. He checked the effectiveness of the challenger's peculiar attack and gradually weakened the Pittsburgher with a ringing crashing drive to the ribs and stomach.

At times, Greb's tactics bewildered the champion, but though the challenger often landed with long average to the jaw and body they seldom stopped the champion's steady body fire. Tunney had Greb in distress in several of the closing rounds but in the fifteenth, Greb unleashed a furious attack that threatened for a moment to topple the champion.

Setting a terrific pace in the closing round, Greb pummeled Tunney on the head and body, forcing the champion to his heels with several knuckles. But it was Greb's last desperate stand, and it failed to counterbalance the wide margin Tunney had piled up on points.

Realize what Kellogg's Bran means to your family's health?

Eaten regularly each day, Kellogg's Bran will permanently relieve constipation; it will free you from dangerous toxic poisons that lead to 90% of all human illness; it will cleanse the entire system and sweeten a bad breath; it will clear a clogged complexion through its work on the bowels. In fact, Kellogg's Bran, through its natural action as a bulk, indigestible agent, will tune-up the whole system!

If you know exactly what constipation means from a medical viewpoint you would lose no time getting Kellogg's Bran yourself and serving it daily to your family. And, Kellogg's is actually delicious, its nut-like flavor adding greatly to the enjoyment of eating cereals. Eat at least two tablespoonfuls each day; in chronic cases, with each meal.

There are many attractive ways to serve Kellogg's Bran. Eat it with milk or with a cereal. Or mix it with cereal before serving. Many housewives cook it with cereal, in each case adding two tablespoonfuls for each person. You will also enjoy the nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran when it has been sprinkled over hot or cold cereals. You have missed some of the joys of life if you have not eaten raisin bread, muffins, griddle-cakes, etc., made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each box. Don't delay your fight against constipation; don't miss a minute in the great battle against illness! You can buy Kellogg's Bran from all grocers and you can have it served in individual packages at first-class hotels, restaurants and clubs.

Lignite Coal Rates

A Statement by the Railroads

THE railroads are under obligation to give reasonable rates and service to all shippers in the State of North Dakota.

The railroads are under the same obligation to give reasonable rates and service to all shippers in other states.

Discrimination is prohibited by law and it is the duty of the railroads to adjust rates as to place no undue or unjust burden on any class of shippers.

All railroad rates are under government control. If shippers are dissatisfied they appeal to the State Railroad Commission or the Interstate Commerce Commission and after public hearing proper rates are ordered. If the railroads are dissatisfied they propose new rates giving 30 days notice and if protests are received the Commission suspends the new rates and orders a hearing.

The rates on North Dakota coal are actually and relatively lower than the rates on farm products and they are much lower than the rates charged for transportation of coal in other states as shown by the following comparison of rates, in cents per ton of 2,000 lbs., as now in effect:

	North Dakota Lignite Rates		Montana Coal Rates	Lake Coal Rates from Duluth
	Single Line	Joint Line
For 25 miles	61	73	113	85
50	73	97	124	102
75	85	109	153	128
100	97	122	169	145
200	134	170	225	219
300	182	207	293	286
400	219	231	349	346

The present abnormally low rates on lignite coal are based on rates established in 1918, during the war period and at a time of general coal and transportation shortage when all consumers were required to use coal from the nearest source of supply. The railroads, believing the North Dakota rates to be unreasonably low and unfair to shippers of other commodities, have proposed an increase.

The railroads, having no other way to get an official review of North Dakota coal rates, filed tariffs which named the rates prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the movement of coal from Duluth. The new tariffs have been suspended until April 1st—in the meantime the rates will not be changed and the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Board of Railroad Commissioners of the State of North Dakota will appoint a day and place for a hearing, giving opportunity for presentation of facts and arguments by all concerned.

FARGO'S RATE CASE

There has been in the last few years, in several big rate cases heard in the country, a recognition of the justice of the contention of many of the smaller cities of the country that freight rate structures should not be built solely for the maintenance of large centers of trade. For example, several cities in Indiana a few years ago fought for a readjustment of the western commodity classification because, they contended, the structure was built to give Chicago an undue advantage in distributing products throughout the territory. The essential basis of the Fargo rate case before the Interstate Commerce Commission is that Chicago and Twin City jobbers and manufacturers should not have an advantage over Fargo in the matter of freight rates; that the rate structures are such that the growth of Fargo's commerce is restricted while that of the Twin Cities develops.

Many of the largest cities of the nation are large because freight rate advantages have made them so. The railroads have justified the practice of rate-making by innumerable reasons, among them that the creation of a large center tends to decrease the cost of operation which in turn ought to produce lower freight rates. However, within the last few years growth of urban population has been viewed with alarm by many of the leading economists of the nation; they see a menace to American institutions in the crowding of millions in cities which in time become peopled with a majority of foreign-born residents.

So the tendency now is to remove the unfair advantage given certain larger centers over the smaller, and the report of the examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission favoring Fargo's contentions in her rate case is a reaffirmation of this principle. It is hoped that Fargo wins eventually. The case yet has to be fought out before the Interstate Commerce Commission as a whole.

Bismarck business men ought to keep in touch with the situation. A representative Fargo business man declared that Fargo ought to be the commercial metropolis of North Dakota as the Twin Cities dominate Minnesota. A readjustment of Fargo's rates as asked might give that city an undue advantage over Bismarck. While Bismarck is with Fargo in her fight to remove an undue advantage held by the Twin Cities, it must be remembered that that same advantage is held by the Twin Cities over Bismarck, and that a complete victory in the Fargo rate case might give Fargo an undue advantage over Bismarck, which in turn would be as vicious as the situation against which Fargo now complains.

It is a situation to which local jobbers and merchants should be most alert.

WINTER'S TIME

In New York State there is a great winter resort at Saranac Lake. Wealthy people go there from all parts of the country to participate in winter sports. In Montreal, in scores of other cities there are great winter festivals which attract people from great distances. The widespread interest taken in winter sports in many cities is proof that winter time is playtime, as well as any other season of the year.

In Bismarck for many years winter has been looked upon as a hibernating time. Outdoor sports have been confined to a limited number of venturesome small boys who have struggled long distances through the snow to find a pond to skate upon, or a hill to slide on.

Now a proposal is made that Bismarck people stop imitating the bears in winter time; but instead to take advantage of the natural possibilities for winter sports. A fine rink for the general public can be established at moderate expense. It would be worth thousands of dollars to the city in promoting health and happiness. It is a good proposal. Let's do it.

ITALIAN ON WAR DEBT

Carlo Schanzer, former Italian foreign minister, declares that Italy needn't have any pangs of conscience if she doesn't repay her financial debt to America. Carlo considers the books balanced, our dollars on one side, Italian casualties on the other.

By another year or two, Europe probably will be claiming that the World War was fought primarily between Germany and America, and that the allies should get a bonus for helping save us.

FARM MEDALS

France has offered a medal to every family able to prove that it had farmed the same land generation after generation continuously for three centuries or more. So far, 750 families have come forward and claimed medals. The La Fargue family has been farming the same patch of ground since the year 772.

Amazing, especially to our wandering nation. Americans are a gypsy race. Our national spirit is much more developed than our community spirit.

SHOCKS POLICE

New Haven policemen nearly had heart failure when Jacob Abraham, banana peddler, walked in with a $20 bill which a customer had given him by mistake, and asked the police to help him find the owner.

How many of our big problems, little ones also, would disappear if all of us were as honest as Jacob Abraham? What this country needs more than anything else, is common honesty.

ONE KIND OF PROSPERITY

A New York newspaper prints this item on its financial page: "The first shipment of the new crop of Florida strawberries, 80 quarts, arrived in New York yesterday and sold promptly at $2.50 a quart."

The farmer who raised those strawberries probably would have a stroke if he heard about the price paid by the consumers. When $2.50 a quart can be paid for berries, there certainly is prosperity in this country—for somebody.

A wise man and his money soon buy Christmas gifts.

Just a short-time now and we will be writing 1923 by mistake and rubbing it out to put 1924.

It will soon be time for new resolutions. We call them new, but they are old ones made over.

MANDAN NEWS

Billy Junior, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ordway received an ice bath Sunday when he went through the ice on the lake while skating on thin ice beneath the highway bridge. He was rescued by a couple of youngsters forming a human chain over the thin ice.

John Joyce, of St. Paul, former resident of Mandan, visited with his old friends yesterday. For the past 21 years he has been connected with the police department of that city, but has been retired on a pension.

President J. H. Newton of the Mandan Commercial club, appointed a civic survey committee Monday evening at the meeting of the board of directors of that organization.

"I don't mean anything in particular," said Ruth evasively, "except that every man has to do this when his wife has money of her own."

"You know very well, my dear, that if you had an assured income without going back to your father, you would tell Jack all about your pearls and if he didn't like it you would say, 'I'll take my baby and get out.'"

"Speaking of babies, Leslie, did you ask Jack to go with us to that moving picture tonight?"

"Yes, but he said he thought he would be too busy to go."

"Well, you tell him for me, Leslie, that because of the coincidence of little Jack being left before your door and Paula Perier's picture, which has to do with a child being left at the door of two young people, all Albany is agog with gossip."

"What kind of gossip, Ruth? What are they saying?"

"Just what Mrs. Smithson intimated to you. That the child is John's. Forgive me, Leslie, for being so brutal. As a rule, I do not believe in retailing this kind of thing, but this story has gotten to such a point that somebody must squelch it."

"Surely you don't believe it is true, Ruth?"

"As far as I am concerned I don't know anything about it, Leslie, and if you leave it to me I don't think it matters. Little Jack has been in your house for months. He is yours legally. No one can take him from you and the sooner you stop conjecturing who his parents are, the happier you will be."

"I have been conjecturing quite a little, Ruth, and I have almost come to the decision that the child belongs to Sydney Carton."

"Good Lord! What makes you think that?" Ruth's tone was curiously eager.

"Well, you know that Sydney very seldom comes to see me. He has made the baby some very wonderful presents and when he does come here he acts so queerly about him. He sits and looks at him as though he were trying to find a resemblance to someone and I think it is a resemblance to himself. He acted very odd the day of the christening. I know that he writes many letters to Jack and Jack writes to him, although Jack never mentions them to me. It would be just like Jack, Ruth, to arrange in some way to adopt his friend's child. Now wouldn't it?"

"Yes, I think it would, Leslie," said Ruth. "Jack is very fond of his friends and very loyal to them. Perhaps that is the solution to the whole business, but you know very well how hard it is to stop the gossips' mouths and they just love to talk about this picture. I think the only way for you and Jack to stop this is for you to go and see the picture together."

"I'll ask Jack again when he comes home to dinner."

"If you want me, I will go with you." (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

SCOUT OF OLD WEST IS SEEN IN BIG FILM

Old Jim Bridger in "The Covered Wagon," Traversed The Old West

When old Jim Bridger, in "The Covered Wagon," which comes to the auditorium Thursday night cuts the arrow from the breast of the beautiful heroine, Molly Wingate, he knows exactly what he is doing and how to do it. At least the original Jim Bridger would have known the necessity and the technique of the operation—it must be taken for granted that Tully Marshall, who impersonates the character in the picture, inherited the wisdom, as well as the appearance and manners of the old plainsman. The original Jim Bridger carried in his body for several years the points of two arrows that struck him simultaneously, at a time when nobody was by to cut them out; and the shadow of Jim Bridger is not going to allow Molly

Don't Neglect a Cold

Mothers, don't let colds get under way; at the first cough or sniffle rub Musterole on the throat and chest. Musterole is a pure, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It draws out congestion, relieves soreness, does all the work of the good old-fashioned mustard plaster in a gentler way, without the blister.

Keep a jar handy for all emergencies; it may prevent pneumonia in your home. To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35¢ in jars & tubes; hospital size, $3.

MAH-JONGG BY J. P. BABCOCK

Leading Mah Jongg Authority and Author of Babcock's Red Book of Rules

The game of Mah Jongg is played with 144 tiles (or pieces), divided into three suits and honor cards. There is a variation of the game played with season and flowers. Of this I will treat later.

The three suits are those of Bamboo, Dots and Character, each suit containing 36 pieces, running from the one to the nine, with four of each number. All pieces are marked con-

ternate the White Dragons and Extra Tiles in play, so that all will show equal wear and if substitution becomes necessary, the new tile will not then be discernible from the reverse side.

Also with each set comes the Mah Jongg box, containing table markers. These are placed before the players to designate the Wind of each.

Jim Bridger was one of the most famous scouts and trappers in all the Northwest back in the Thirties and Forties, and his name has an enduring place on the maps of the territory he explored and in the records of the conquest of the West.

When General William H. Ashley of St. Louis, organized his first company of trappers in 1832, Jim Bridger was one of the most daring and resourceful of all his forty men.

This company of trappers roamed over what is now Wyoming, Utah, North and South Dakota, Washington and Oregon, and the value of the skins taken in a season sometimes amounted to as much as two hundred thousand dollars.

General Ashley made a large fortune from these enterprises, notwithstanding the fact that he was generous with his men and never unfair in his dealings with the Indians.

Jim Bridger was on of the first white men to visit the Yellowstone; but, like many explorers, he met with derision when he told of the wonders he had seen.

His fellow scouts admired him and loved him, but they could not bring themselves to believe his stories of the geysers.

In 1837 Bridger built his fort on the Black Fork of Green River and became a trader; and it is at this place, and in this occupation that he is to be seen in "The Covered Wagon."

Jim Bridger was on of the first white men to visit the Yellowstone; but, like many explorers, he met with derision when he told of the wonders he had seen.

Social and Personal

Was Classmate of Mrs. C. D. Dursema At Northwestern

Charles Edwin Shank, reader of plays and entertainers, who appears at the Presbyterian church Saturday, Dec. 15, has unusual talent as an entertainer as evidenced even in his college days, according to Mrs. C. D. Dursema who was a classmate of his at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

"He just had natural talent in reading and acting," said Mrs. Dursema, "and took part in all kinds of dramatic presentations."

The fact that he has appeared before the Dramatic League of America is an indication that he is an entertainer of unusual talent, said Mrs. Dursema, the only such one ever asked to appear before that body of artists.

Mr. Shank has a varied repertoire from which to select. Those who have heard him state that he is always able to portray delicate and illustrative bits of history in his readings with artistry.

He appears in Bismarck as the third member of the Lyceum course which is being brought here by the Woman's Community Council. Any surplus money obtained above expenses for securing the entertainers will be used to help defray the expenses of the organization.

Receive Copy of "Totem" at School

A copy of "Totem," paper published by Lincoln high school at Seattle, Wash., has been received at the Bismarck school. It was sent by Paul Mowry.

Paul completed the eighth grade at the Bismarck school last year and is one of the 62 students, out of 1,429, with exceptional grades in Lincoln high school.

From Totem: "In the freshman group Gwendolyn Keith and Paul Mowry each knocked down a 4's from their teachers. Nine per cent of all the grades were 4's. There are 488 freshmen."

While attending the Bismarck school last year, Paul won the History Medal for having the highest average in history and civics for the year. He also won the Winchester prize for arithmetic.

Dr. Gilmore, former curator of the North Dakota Historical society, at present with the Museum of the American Indian, New York City, presented a Bird and Nature chart to the Bismarck school. This chart represents work done by Dr. Gilmore himself. It is greatly appreciated by the pupils of the upper grades and will be very useful in their study of North America. It will be of the greatest value in the spring when the birds return from the south.

BISMARCK IS MEMBER
Mrs. Lyman N. Cary, President of the State Federation has had some correspondence with the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, New York City, in connection with the health work of the clubs. Last week she received a letter from Miss Pearl Braithwaite, Eligibility Secretary of the organization, who formerly lived in Bismarck and is now a member of the staff of the National Organization. Miss Braithwaite had read the name on letters sent out and wrote a personal letter expressing her wish to see Bismarck. She takes its place among the other states as an "education for health is concerned."

Beautiful and Luxurious Coats Made From Latest Pile Fabrics

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Fabric furs paved the way for all those beautiful and luxurious pile fabrics which have entrenched themselves so strongly in the present season's styles. Manufacturers of coats may choose materials that are as marvelous as natural skins, or others that make no attempt at imitation, but are equally rich and lustrous. The picture presented here tells the story of two hand-made coats, one of them of kerami cloth, which looks just like fur and the other of gerona, a fabric that is as sumptuous and elegant as fur. These were contrived to follow the simple lines sponsored by the mode, but there is nothing simple in their cut. It is novel and bespeaks a master designer's hand. This and the choice of finishing touches are the means by which they are promoted out of the commonplace and into the distinctive style merited by the quality of the fabrics and furs that make them.

The full, straight-hung coat of black kerami at the left of the picture has very wide sleeves and a collar of silky, fox fur. A girdle of braided silk, ending in long tassels, completes it. The envelope wrap at the right of black gerona hangs from a narrow yoke at the back and uses dyed skin for the luxurious collar and linings.

WHAT TO EAT

TUNA fish is one of the most delicately flavored of fish and may be used in various dishes and enjoyed by those who are not fond of fish.

Ocean Chicken Pie—Take a large can of tuna and mix with it after draining, the following sauce: Two tablespoonfuls of bubbling hot melted butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and when well blended add one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Boil together two sliced carrots, one medium-sized onion, chopped, two small potatoes sliced, and one cupful of peas. Line a baking dish with plain pastry, fill with the vegetables in layers with the fish mixed with the white sauce. Cover with an upper crust with opening for the steam to escape and bake in a hot oven until the crust is brown.

Cranberry and Raisin Pie—Cut one and one-half cupfuls of cranberries in halves, let the water run over them in a colander to wash out as many seeds as possible, add one cupful of prunes coaxed, pitted and cut into bits, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, and one tablespoonful of flour. Turn into a pastry-lined pie plate, dot with bits of butter, cover with strips of pastry lattice-fashion and bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Raisin Pie de Luxe—Line a medium-sized pie plate with pastry. Cook together one cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of water mixed with three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, the rind of two lemons and one orange, and one and one-fourth cupfuls of water and two cupfuls of raisins. When the starch is cooked add the juice of two lemons and one orange, one cupful of walnut meats coarsely chopped. Pour into the pastry-lined pie plate, cover with top crust and bake for thirty minutes.

Bacon Macaroni—Wipe the fish, if salt, soak until freshened. Brush with olive oil, put into a dripping pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper to season and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

RIVER IS CLOSING UP

May Fall Short of New Record For Late Closings

The Missouri river was closing today. Early this afternoon ice was filling up the gaps from the water pump station north of the railroad bridge, and it was expected that by tomorrow morning the river would be completely closed.

If the date of actual closing is fixed as tomorrow, it will be just one day short of the record for late closings in a period of 50 years.

MANY ATTEND BARNECK RITES

The McCabe Methodist church was filled yesterday afternoon with friends of Mrs. William Barneck to attend the funeral rites conducted by Rev. S. F. Halfyard. Many beautiful floral offerings were sent by friends. Pall-bearers were W. F. McGraw, E. J. Budge and J. N. Reherty of the city highway commission and Matt Piller, Julius Laddenhoff and Charles Gutman of the Odd Fellows lodge. Interment was in Fairview cemetery beside the grave of her son who was buried a few weeks ago.

A. M. Olson of Albert Lea, Minnesota, a brother, who attended the funeral, left last night for his home.

Pneumonia Claims Meader Baby

Funeral services for Florence Gable Meader, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Meader of 405 Third street, who died at the family residence Monday afternoon of pneumonia were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family home. Eustice Shering of the Salvation Army had charge of the services. Interment took place in St. Mary's cemetery.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

Bringing the house down, to use a theatrical expression, "The Gun-fighter," William Farnum's latest William Fox production, opened at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow. Embodying many score of thrills, "The Gun-fighter" is a production that cannot avoid a fortune of applause. It is tremendous in scope, thrilling in development, offering a variety of entertainment seldom equalled.

William Farnum performs the role of Billy Buell, a "strong" and lifelike character of the Spanish days of Southern California. Titillating and invigorating, brandishing numerous and sundry sideights and black shadows, the story brings a new style of thrill to the screen.

A fight in a darkened room with knives! Can anything more hair-raisingly dramatic be conceived? The scene is admirably photographed, startlingly staged, action and suspense teasing the spectator's curiosity to the breaking point.

The fierce battle between two feudal families, is staged with unerring power, while the duel between Billy Buell, played by Farnum, and Jacob Bonchley, played by James Morrison, is vivid.

Adequate cast in support of William Farnum are Doris May, L. C. Shumway, Virginia True Boardman, Jerry Campbell, J. Maurice Foster and Cecil Van Auker.

THE ELTINGE

Thomas Meighan will be seen at the Eltinge theatre today and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, in a Paramount picture, "Woman Proof" from a story by George Ade.

The story deals with the four children of a sick man who divides his estate among them on condition that each is married within five years following the reading of the will.

Should they fail to carry out this provision, the millions are to go to an old people's home.

All of the children with the exception of Tom Rockwood, played by Thomas Meighan, share their partners, and although Tom is not woman-proof, as the sequel shows, his lukewarmness until he meets the girl of his heart, played by Lila Lee, causes considerable trouble. It is in this situation which is responsible for many interesting scenes with which the development of the story abounds.

Charles Edwin Shank, reader of plays and entertainer, who appears at the Presbyterian church Saturday, Dec. 15, has unusual talent as an entertainer as evidenced even in his college days, according to Mrs. C. D. Dursema who was a classmate of his at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

"He just had natural talent in reading and acting," said Mrs. Dursema, "and took part in all kinds of dramatic presentations."

The fact that he has appeared before the Dramatic League of America is an indication that he is an entertainer of unusual talent, said Mrs. Dursema, for only such are ever asked to appear before that body of artists.

Mr. Shank has a varied repertory from which to select. Those who have heard him state that he is always able to portray delicate and illusive bits of humor in his readings with artistry.

He appears in Bismarck as the third member of the Lyceum course which is being brought here by the Woman's Community Council. Any surplus money obtained above expenses for securing the entertainers will be used to help defray the expenses of the organization.

Presbyterian Mission Meets

The Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock when the following program will be given:

Devotionals—Mrs. E. M. Thompson.

Mission Study, Japan—Mrs. J. J. MacLeod, leader.

News from the Earthquake Area—Mrs. Fitch.

The Trail of the Pioneer—Mrs. A. M. Bradley.

Sky-Piloting in Japan—Mrs. Reynolds.

Reflection of Accidental Ideas and Their Government—Mrs. Crawford.

Then and Now—Mrs. Marcellus.

Vocal duet—Emma and Althea King.

Social Hour, Hostess—Mmes. Postlethwaite and Young.

All members of the church and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

Receive Copy of "Totem" at School

A copy of "Totem," paper published by Lincoln high school at Seattle, Wash., has been received at the Richholt school. It was sent by Paul Mowry.

Paul completed the eighth grade at the Richholt school last year and is one of the 52 students, out of 1429, with exceptional grades in Lincoln high school.

From Totem:

"In the freshman group Gwendolyn Keith and Paul Mowry each knocked down 4 A's from their teachers. Nine per cent of all the grades were F's. There are 488 freshmen.

While attending the Richholt school last year, Paul won the History Medal for having the highest average in history and civics, for the year. He also won the Winchester prize for arithmetic.

Dr. Gilmore, former curator of the North Dakota Historical society, at present with the Museum of the American Indian, New York City, presented a Bird and Nature chart to the Richholt school. This chart represents work done by Dr. Gilmore himself. It is greatly appreciated by the pupils of the upper grades and will be very useful in their study of birds, animals and plants of North America. It will be of the greatest value in the spring when the birds return from the south.

BISMARCK IS MEMBER

Mrs. Lyman N. Cary, President of the State Federation has had some correspondence with the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, New York City, in connection with the health work of the clubs.

Last week she received a letter from Miss Pearl Braithwaite, Eligibility Secretary of the organization, who formerly lived in Bismarck and is now a member of the staff of the National Organization. Miss Braithwaite had read the name on letters sent out and wrote a personal letter expressing her wish to see "North Dakota take its place among the other states so far as education for health is concerned."

LADIES' AID MEETING

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors, Thursday afternoon, December 13.

Members and friends of the society are urged to attend this meeting.

ELECT OFFICERS

St. Mary's Sewing Circle will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at St. Mary's school auditorium to elect officers. Mrs. Sam Helvik and Mrs. J. N. Robery will be hostesses.

A marriage license was issued by the county judge to Miss Leora Belle Slater, daughter of Bird Slater, well known farmer of Britton, and Harvey Wilton Slatt of Britton.

LEAVES FOR CHICAGO

Miss Stella Beyer and her niece, Evelyn O'Brien, have left for Chicago where they will make their home during the winter.

CITY SHOPPERS

Mrs. W. H. Druffehn and mother of Cleveland arrived in the city last evening to spend a few days in shopping.

Mrs. C. Gustafson and sons of Plaza are visiting with friends in the city today.

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Fabric furs paved the way for all those beautiful and luxurious pile fabrics which have entrenched themselves so strongly in the present season's styles. Manufacturers of coats may choose materials that are marvelously like natural skins, or others that make no attempt at imitation, but are equally rich and lustrous. The picture presented here tells the story of two handsome coats, one of them of keram cloth, which looks just like fur and the other of gerona, a fabric that is as sumptuous and elegant as fur.

These wraps contrive to follow the simple lines sponsored by the mode, but there is nothing simple in their cut. It is novel and bespeaks a master designer's hand. This and the choice of finishing touches are the secrets by which they are promoted out of the commonplace and into the distinctive style merited by the quality of the fabrics and furs that make them.

The full, straight-hanging coat of black keram at the left of the picture has very wide sleeves and a collar of silky, fox fur. A girdle of braided silk, ending in long tassels, completes it. The empique wrap at the right of black gerona hangs from a narrow yoke at the back and uses dyed skin for the luxurious collar and bandings.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

WHAT TO EAT

TUNA fish is one of the most delicately flavored of fish and may be used in various dishes and enjoyed by those who are not fond of fish.

Ocean Chicken Pie.—Take a large can of tuna and mix with it, after flaking, the following sauce:

Two tablespoonsful of bubbling hot melted butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and when well blended add one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Boil together two diced carrots, one medium-sized onion, chopped, two small potatoes diced, and one cupful of peas. Line a baking dish with plain pastry, fill with the vegetable in layers with the fish mixed with the white sauce. Cover with an upper crust with opening for the steam to escape and bake in a hot oven until the crust is brown.

Cranberry and Raisin Pie.—Cut one and one-half cupfuls of cranberries in halves, let the water run through them in a colander to wash out as many seeds as possible, add one cupful of prunes cooked, pitted and cut into bits, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, and one tablespoonful of flour. Turn into a pastry-lined pie plate, dot with bits of butter, cover with strips of pastry lattice-fashion and bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Raisin Pie de Luxe.—Line a medium-sized pie plate with pastry. Cook together one cupful of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of water mixed with three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, the rind of two lemons and one orange, and one and one-fourth cupfuls of water and two cupfuls of raisins. When the starch is cooked add the juice of two lemons and one orange, one cupful of walnut meats coarsely chopped. Pour into the pastry-lined pie plate, cover with top crust and bake for thirty minutes.

Begone Mackerel.—Wipe the fish, if salt, soak until freshened. Brush with olive oil, put into a dripping pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper to season and sprinkle with chopped parsley.

RIVER IS CLOSING UP

May Fall Short of New Record For Late Closings

The Missouri river was closing today. Early this afternoon ice was filling up the gaps from the water pump station north of the railroad bridge, and it was expected that by tomorrow morning the river would be completely closed.

If the date of actual closing is fixed as tomorrow, it will be just one day short of the record for late closings in a period of 50 years.

MANY ATTEND BARNECK RITES

The McCabe Methodist church was filled yesterday afternoon with friends of Mrs. William Barneck, to attend the funeral rites conducted by Rev. S. F. Halford. Many beautiful floral offerings were sent by friends. Pall-bearers were W. F. McGraw, E. J. Budge and J. N. Robery of the state highway commission and Matt Piller, Julius Laddenhoff and Charles Gutman of the Odd Fellows lodge. Interment was in Fairview cemetery beside the grave of her son who was buried a few weeks ago.

A. M. Olson of Albert Lea, Minnesota, a brother, who attended the funeral, left last night for his home.

Pneumonia Claims Meader Baby

Funeral services for Florence Goldie Meader, 10-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Meader of 405 Third street, who died at the family residence Monday afternoon of pneumonia were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family home. Ensign Sherring of the Salvation Army had charge of the services. Interment took place in St. Mary's cemetery.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL

Bringing the house down, to use a theatrical expression, "The Gun-fighter," William Farnum's latest William Fox production, opened at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow.

Embodying many score of thrills, "The Gun-fighter" is a production that cannot afford a fortune of applause. It is tremendous in scope, thrilling in development, offering a variety of entertainment seldom equalled.

William Farnum performs the role of Billy Buell, a strong and lifelike character of the Spanish days of Southern California. Tillating and invigorating, brandishing numerous and sundry sidelights and black shadows, the story brings a new style of thrill to the screen.

A fight in a darkened room with knives! Can anything more hair-raisingly dramatic be conceived? The scene is admirably photographed, startlingly staged, action and suspense teasing the spectator's curiosity to the breaking point.

The fierce battle between two feudal families, is staged with unerring power, while the duel between Billy Buell, played by Farnum, and Jacob Brechley, played by James Morrison, is vivid.

Adequate cast in support of William Farnum are Doris May, L. C. Shumway, Virginia True Boardman, Jerry Campbell, J. Maurice Foster and Cecil Van Auken.

THE ELTINGE

Thomas Meighan will be seen at the Eltinge theatre today and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, in a Paramount picture, "Woman Proof" from a story by George Ade.

The story deals with the four children of a rich man who divides his estate among them on condition that each is married within five years following the death of the father. Should they fail to carry out this provision, the millions are to go to an old people's home.

All of the children win the exception of Tom Rockwood, played by Thomas Meighan, whose three partners, and although Tom is not we-

There has been in the last few years, in several big rate cases heard in the country, a recognition of the justice of the contention of many of the smaller cities of the country that freight rate structures should not be built solely for the maintenance of large centers of trade. For example, several cities in Indiana a few years ago fought for a readjustment of the western commodity classification because, they contended, the structure was built to give Chicago an undue advantage in distributing products throughout the territory. The essential basis of the Fargo rate case before the Interstate Commerce Commission is that Chicago and Twin City jobbers and manufacturers should not have an advantage over Fargo in the matter of freight rates; that the rate structures are such that the growth of Fargo's commerce is restricted while that of the Twin Cities develops.

Many of the largest cities of the nation are large because freight rate advantages have made them so. The railroads have justified the practice of rate-making by innumerable reasons, among them that the creation of a large center tends to decrease the cost of operation which in turn ought to produce lower freight rates. However, within the last few years growth of urban population has been viewed with alarm by many of the leading economists of the nation; they see a menace to American institutions in the crowding of millions in cities which in time become peopled with a majority of foreign-born residents.

So the tendency now is to remove the unfair advantage given certain larger centers over the smaller, and the report of the examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission favoring Fargo's contentions in her rate case is a reaffirmation of this principle. It is hoped that Fargo wins eventually. The case yet has to be fought out before the Interstate Commerce Commission as a whole.

Bismarck business men ought to keep in touch with the situation. A representative Fargo business man declared that Fargo ought to be the commercial metropolis of North Dakota as the Twin Cities dominate Minnesota. A readjustment of Fargo's rates as asked might give that city an undue advantage over Bismarck. While Bismarck is with Fargo in her fight to remove an undue advantage held by the Twin Cities, it must be remembered that that same advantage is held by the Twin Cities over Bismarck, and that a complete victory in the Fargo rate case might give Fargo an undue advantage over Bismarck, which in turn would be as vicious as the situation against which Fargo now complains.

It is a situation to which local jobbers and merchants should be most alert.

WINTER'S TIME

In New York State there is a great winter resort at Saranac Lake. Wealthy people go there from all parts of the country to participate in winter sports. In Montreal, in scores of other cities there are great winter festivals which attract people from great distances. The widespread interest taken in winter sports in many cities is proof that winter time is playtime, as well as any other season of the year.

In Bismarck for many years winter has been looked upon as a hibernating time. Outdoor sports have been confined to a limited number of venturesome small boys who have struggled long distances through the snow to find a pond to skate upon, or a hill to slide on.

Now a proposal is made that Bismarck people stop imitating the bears in winter time; but instead to take advantage of the natural possibilities for winter sports. A fine ice rink for the general public can be established at moderate expense. It would be worth thousands of dollars to the city in promoting health and happiness. It is a good proposal. Let's do it.

ITALIAN ON WAR DEBT

By another year or two, Europe probably will be claiming that the World War was fought primarily between Germany and America, and that the allies should get a bonus for helping save us.

FARM MEDALS

France has offered a medal to every family able to prove that it had farmed the same land generation after generation continuously for three centuries or more. So far, 750 families have come forward and claimed medals. The La Fargue family has been farming the same patch of ground since the year 772.

Amazing, especially to our wandering nation. Americans are a gypsy race. Our national spirit is much more developed than our community spirit.

SHOCKS POLICE

New Haven policemen nearly had heart failure when Jacob Abraham, banana peddler, walked in with a $20 bill which a customer had given him by mistake, and asked the police to help him find the owner.

How many of our big problems, little ones also, would disappear if all of us were as honest as Jacob Abraham? What this country needs more than anything else, is common honesty.

ONE KIND OF PROSPERITY

The farmer who raised those strawberries probably would have a stroke if he heard about the price paid by the consumers. When $2.50 a quart can be paid for berries, there certainly is prosperity in this country—for somebody.

Oh, what do the cold waves say?
Oh, they say, "Where's the coal?"

What could be worse than being given the mumps for Christmas?

Will you need a gift for an enemy of yours? Give him cheap cigars.

If you don't like some neighbor you can give his little boy a drum.

The kids like skates, but they are hard on the seats of their pants.

What will you give father? Give him asbestos gloves to be worn while opening Christmas bills.

A hot-water bottle makes a swell gift for a wife, and besides it will keep her feet warm at night.

Give her an imported hair brush if she wears imported hair.

Umbrellas make good gifts because you can borrow them back.

In giving a watch you can write "It's your time now," or "Hope you have a good time."

A nice telephone stand for a Christmas gift may help some friend stand her telephone.

A rug as a gift makes a room as snug as a bug in a rug.

The boy will get mad if there is no sawdust in sister's doll.

Give daughter a razor so she will not sharpen pencils with yours.

The lighter electric iron does not damage the wall or knock a husband out like the heavy ones.

On marking up a price tag always be sure the person who receives the gift will not exchange it.

Hide the children's presents with the school books and they never will find them.

In some cases suit cases will suit as gifts.

Towels are nice, clean gifts.

Some kids get what they want while other get amiable presents.

Christmas is not over until friends quit being polite to you.

Give artificial flowers. They last much longer than the other ones.

A wise man and his money soon buy Christmas gifts.

Just a short time now and we will be writing 1923 by mistake and rubbing it out to put 1924.

It will soon be time for new resolutions. We call them new, but they are old ones made over.

If hell is paved with good intentions it will be repaved New York.

We swear off on New Year and after that we swear off and on.

"Mama, can I hang up one of sister's stockings for mine?"

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

What do you think the next riddle was about that the Riddle Lady asked in Riddle Town?
But there! What a very foolish question! As though you should know without hearing it!
Well, this was the riddle:

"I'm as soft as cotton and white as milk,
As thick as a blanket and smooth as silk,
I'm as merry as sleigh bells and gentle as rain,
And tohogan down roofs to your window pane.

"And I peep inside as you dream on your bed,
And wink my eyes at your cute little sled,
Then I quietly beckon and call to the others—
I've hundreds of rollocking, tumbling brothers.

"And then they come rushing, elbowing for room,
Sky-dust, as they're called, from the Old Woman's broom;
And away we all fly to the road on the hill,
And cuddle together, and lie there still.

"In the morning you come with the girls and the boys,
All shouting and laughing and making a noise,
And you stamp and you tramp and you slide on our back,
And soon you're a slippery, glistening track.

"Then you build a brave fort and you use us for walls,
And out of us also you make cannon balls;
And our soldiers are sturdy (we make famous ones),
With dispanns for helmets and broomsticks for guns.

"We love all the children, their noise and their fun,
The thing that we dread is the hot shining sun,
When up in the sky his stern visage appears,
We are very unhappy and melt into tears.

"What is it?" asked the Riddle Lady.
"What hill was it you spoke of?"

Boys Will Be Boys

asked Jack and Jill. "Was it the one we fell down?"

"It's just the hill nearest to any little boy's house," said the Riddle Lady. "Or girls either."
"I know the answer," cried Nancy, and at the same time Nick called out, "I know it, too! It's snow."
"Right!" said the Riddle Lady. "And the prize today is a sled. You'll have to go partners with it, my dears. But there is room on it for you both."

MANDAN NEWS

Billy Junior, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ordway received an ice bath Sunday when he went through the ice on the lagboat while skating on this ice beneath the highway bridge. He was rescued by a couple of youngsters forming a human chain over the thin ice.

John Joyce, of St. Paul, former resident of Mandan, visited with his old friends yesterday. For the past 23 years he has been connected with the police department of that city, but has been retired on a pension.

President J. H. Newton of the Mandan Commercial club, appointed a civic survey committee Monday evening at the meeting of the board of directors of that organization.

"I don't mean anything in particular," said Ruth evasively, "except that every man has to do this when his wife has money of her own. You know very well, my dear, that if you had an assured income without going back to your father, you would tell Jack all about your pearls and if he didn't like it you would say, 'I'll take my baby and get out.'"

"Speaking of babies, Leslie, did you ask Jack to go with us to that moving picture tonight?"
"Yes, but he said he thought he would be too busy to go."

"Well, you tell him for me, Leslie, that because of the coincidence of little Jack being left before your door and Paula Perrier's picture, which has to do with a child being left at the door of two young people, all Albany is agog with gossip."

"What kind of gossip, Ruth? What are they saying?"

"Just what Mrs. Smithson intimated to you: That the child is John's. Forgive me, Leslie, for being so brutal. As a rule, I do not believe in retailing this kind of thing, but this story has gotten to such a point that somebody must squelch it."
"Surely you don't believe it is true, Ruth?"
"As far as I am concerned I don't know anything about it, Leslie, and if you leave it to me I don't think it matters. Little Jack has been in your house for months. He has grown into your heart. He is yours legally. No one can take him from you and the sooner you stop conjecturing who his parents are, the happier you will be."

"I have been conjecturing quite a little, Ruth, and I have almost come to the decision that the child belongs to Sydney Carton."

"Good Lord! What makes you think that?" Ruth's tone was curiously eager.

"Well, you know that Sydney very seldom comes to see me. He has made the baby some very wonderful presents and when he does come here he acts so queerly about him. He sits and looks at him as though he were trying to find a resemblance to someone and I think it is a resemblance to himself. He acted very odd the day of the christening. I know that he writes many letters to Jack and Jack writes to him, although Jack never mentions them to me. It would be just like Jack, Ruth, to arrange in some way to adopt his friend's child. Now wouldn't it?"

"Yes, I think it would, Leslie," said Ruth. "Jack is very fond of his friends and very loyal to them. Perhaps that is the solution to the whole business, but you know very well how hard it is to stop the gossip's mouths and they just love to talk about this picture. I think the only way for you and Jack to stop this is for you to go and see the picture together."

"I'll ask Jack again when he comes home to dinner."

"If you want me, I will go with you."

SCOUT OF OLD WEST IS SEEN IN BIG FILM

Old Jim Bridger in "The Covered Wagon," Traversed The Old West

When old Jim Bridger, in "The Covered Wagon," which comes to the auditorium Thursday night cuts the arrow from the breast of the beautiful heroine, Molly Wingate, he knows exactly what he is doing and how to do it. At least the original Jim Bridger would have known the necessity and the technique of the operation—it must be taken. For granted that Tully Marshall, who impersonates the character in the picture, inherited the wisdom, as well as the appearance and manners of the old plainsman. The original Jim Bridger carried in his body for several years the points of two arrows that struck him simultaneously, at a time when nobody was by to cut them out; and the shadow of Jim Bridger is not going to allow Molly

MAH-JONGG

BY J. P. BABCOCK
Leading Mah Jongg Authority and Author of "Babcock's Red Book of Rules"

The game of Mah Jongg is played with 144 tiles, (or pieces), divided into three suits and honor cards. There is a variation of the game played with seasons and flowers. Of this I will treat later.
The three suits are those of Bamboo, Dots and Character, each suit containing 36 pieces, running from the one to the nine, with four of each number. All pieces are marked consistently for each identification except the one weak spot of the Bamboo. On account of possible confusion with the two of the same suit, this piece has been marked with the Chinese Hemp Bird.
Honor cards are divided into Winds and Dragons. These are easily distinguishable from suit tiles as the latter have a number in one of the corners, whereas the dragons have no corner markings and the Four dice come with the set. Two of these are used in play, as will be told later, and two are extra. In addition, each set is provided with the bone or ivory counters, which should be divided as follows: To each player give two counters with five red dots, representing 500 points each (or 1000 total), nine counters with one red dot, representing 100 points each (or 900 total), eight counters with 10 points (or 800 total).

winds have corner marking of "E," "S," "W," and "N," to designate respectively East, South, West, North. There are three sets of dragons (red, green and white) of four tiles each. Each Wind also has four tiles.

Easy to Learn.
Becoming familiar with the tiles is a matter of only a few minutes' concentration. You will divide the tiles in accord with the above outline and study them in a minute, you will find no difficulty in distinguishing them readily during the course of play.

Also there is in each set four extra white, unmarked tiles similar to the White Dragons. In case one piece of a set is lost it may be replaced by one of these extra tiles, properly marked. It is advisable to Wingate to suffer as he did if it can be helped.

Jim Bridger was one of the most famous scouts and trappers in all the Northwest back in the Thirties and Forties, and his name has an enduring place on the maps of the territory he explored and in the records of the conquest of the West. When General William H. Ashley of St. Louis, organized his first company of trappers in 1822, Jim Bridger was one of the most daring and resourceful of all his forty men. This company of trappers roamed North and South Dakota, Washington and Oregon, and the value of the skins taken in a season sometimes amounted to as much as one hundred thousand dollars. General Ashley made a large fortune from these enterprises, notwithstanding the fact that he was generous with his men and never unfair in his dealings with the Indians.

Jim Bridger was one of the first white men to visit the Yellowstone; but, like many explorers, he met with derision when he told of the wonders he had seen. His fellow scouts admired him and loved him, but they could not bring themselves to believe his stories of the geysers. In 1837 Bridger built his fort on the Black Fork of Green River and became a trader; and it is at this place, and in this occupation that he is to be seen in "The Covered Wagon."

FEATURE CORN IN CATALOGUE OF WILL & CO.

42nd Annual Catalogue of Pioneer Seed House Is Issued From the Press

Corn is featured in the 42nd annual catalogue, Oscar H. Will and Company, Bismarck's pioneer seed house, being issued from The Tribune press. There will be 200,000 copies of the catalogue, a handsomely printed 96-page book with colored covers. It is profusely illustrated.

The first cover page bears pictures of yellow flint, pioneer white dent and falconer semi-dent corn, and the booklet tells of specially adapted varieties of seed corn introduced, grown and bred for northwestern conditions.

A tribute to Oscar H. Will, founder of the company, is paid in the catalogue.

"Oscar H. Will whose picture appears upon this page founded our business 42 years ago with a deep interest in and an earnest desire to aid Northwestern Agriculture," says the company's statement. "We feel that the years which have passed since then bear ample testimony to the value, honesty and progressiveness of our concern in its chosen field."

"For 42 years we have been breeding, selecting and introducing special varieties of corn, grain, vegetables and nursery stock with qualities which adapted them especially to the Northwest, and we have given to Northwestern agriculture many of its most valuable standard varieties."

The scores of varieties of flower and garden seeds, bulbs, house plants and trees handled by the concern are described in the catalogue.

HOME FIRST THEN AUTO IS BABSON'S PLEA

By NEA Service.

Wellesley Hills, Mass., Dec. 11.—Home ownership should come before automobile ownership, yet only half those driving motor cars today can be said to live in their own homes!

With this significant statement, Roger W. Babson, noted economist and statistician, opening a broadcast against the unbalanced expansion of the automobile business in relation with the other basic industries.

"The time to buy an automobile comes when a person has a house paid for, or he at least has a fair equity in it," explains Babson. "Or he should have the equivalent of this in securities."

"We have been 300 years in this country building houses. The first automobile was sold 20 years ago. In four more years at the present rate of production there will be more automobiles than houses."

Lack of Balance.

There is too much, he warns, when such a situation vaults itself. "People used to buy a machine only when they could afford it. Now they cut down on clothing, household furnishings, mental advancement, for the sake of the car. The automobile is gradually lowering the standard of living and the standard of living is the danger."

Automobile manufacturers have been killing the goose that lays the golden eggs, he adds, by this abnormal stimulation of their business.

"We meet business troubles in this country," he explains, "when one industry gets out of line with the others. Remember, I believe in the automobile industry and I think the country owes a great deal to it as a permanent basic industry. But the best thing in the world can be overdone. The soundest prosperity consists in keeping a balance among all basic industries."

Half Luxuries.

Despite the contention of auto manufacturers that the automobile is a necessity, Babson estimates half of the cars on the streets today may be considered luxuries. His idea when a motor car becomes a luxury is this:

"When an automobile increases a man's efficiency it's a necessity. But when it does not do so, or when the money for a car, if invested in something else, would increase the man's efficiency more than the machine, then it becomes a luxury."

"When a workman goes to his factory in a Ford, leaves it outside for the day and night, he's saving car fare, when the depreciation alone on the car is 30 cents a day, then that car certainly is a luxury."

Budget Will Tell.

The answer to the whole situation, believes Babson, is the institution of the budget in every home.

"Every man should have a budget, whereby he definitely puts aside certain proportions of his income for rent, food, education, pleasure, savings, and other things that go into the average family life. Thus he can soon see whether he ought to have an auto."

"If he can continue to save a reasonable amount for a rainy day, not cut down his standard of living, and still have an auto—fine."

"But to give up savings or cut down the standard of living for an automobile is unwise and unsafe."

"It just resolves itself into the matter of keeping a budget. By this means any man can answer the question himself."

PETITIONS FOR LEMKE SENT

Boom for Ambassadorship Reaches Nation's Capital

The Lemke boom for ambassador to Mexico has reached Washington. A dispatch to The Grand Forks Herald from the capital says: Petitions from "representative citizens" of North Dakota, urging that William Lemke be appointed United States Ambassador to Mexico have been presented to President Coolidge by Senator E. F. Ladd. This announcement was made today by D. H. McArthur, Senator Ladd's secretary, after a consultation with the senator as a result of queries as to the truth of reports received by the Grand Forks Herald that the former attorney general of North Dakota and Nonpartisan League leader was being boosted for the Mexican embassy.

"Senator Ladd has received a great many communications and petitions from representative citizens of North Dakota requesting that Mr. Lemke be appointed ambassador to Mexico and in accordance with his usual custom he has referred the matter to the executive department for such action as it may deem fit," Mr. McArthur said.

BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE AND ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON

In the District Court of the United States for the District of North Dakota, in the County of Burleigh, Division, in the Matter of Anders Alfred Erickson, Bankrupt.

To the Honorable Judges of the District Court of the United States for the District of North Dakota, Anders Alfred Erickson, of Wilton in the County of Burleigh and State of North Dakota, in said District, respectfully represents that on the 25th day of September, 1923, last past, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy, that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

WHEREFORE, he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts and liabilities incurred by him under said bankruptcy acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this 24th day of November A. D. 1923.

Anders Alfred Erickson, Bankrupt.

ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON

District of North Dakota, ss: On the 8th day of December, A. D. 1923, on reading the Petition for Discharge of the above-named Bankrupt, it is ORDERED: By the Court, that a hearing be had upon the same on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1924, before the said court, at Fargo, in said district, at ten o'clock forenoon, and that notice thereof be published in The Bismarck Tribune, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court, that the Referee shall send, by mail, to all known creditors, copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

WITNESS The Honorable Andrew Miller, Judge of the said court, and the Seal thereof, at Bismarck, in said district, on the 8th day of December, A. D. 1923.

MILL BOARD IS NECESSARY, IS VIEW TAKEN

Many in Administration Circles Believe Carley Resignation Shows It

The conclusion is drawn in administration circles here from the resignation of J. R. Carley as member of the board of managers of the state mill and elevator at Grand Forks, that the legislature acted wisely in naming a special board to manage the mill rather than leave that duty solely upon the industrial commission. Mr. Carley, in tendering his resignation, said that the duties of the office required more time than he could spare and attend to his banking duties. It was pointed out at the capital that if a resident of Grand Forks found such duty required a great deal of time, it would be poor policy to entrust the management to the Industrial Commission in Bismarck, especially when members must devote a large share of their time to their respective positions of Governor, Attorney-General and Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor.

It had been reported here, although there was no official statement on the subject, that Carley disagreed with the policies of C. E. Austin, general manager of the mill, and that while such differences had not reached the Industrial Commission it might have been expected that the commission would have felt the necessity of standing by Mr. Austin until he has had a fair opportunity to demonstrate what may be done with the mill.

G. L. Ireland, who was formally named to the position at a meeting of the Industrial Commission late yesterday, is head of the Ireland Lumber Company in Grand Forks, and has been chairman of the mill and elevator committee of the Grand Forks Commercial Club.

LABOR HERE BEST PAID SAYS DAVIS

Cabinet Member Urges Continuation of Efforts Toward Cooperation

Washington, Dec. 12.—Legislation touching the interests of laboring men and women at many points was recommended today by Secretary Davis of the Labor Department in his annual report.

Among other things he asked Congress to provide a less complicated method of handling railway labor disputes than that now administered under the Railroad Labor Board; to give the Labor Department greater authority and facilities for enforcing better working conditions generally; to make appropriations for improvement of the immigration stations at New York, Boston, Seattle and San Francisco; and to enact a complete new "alien code," providing for selection of immigrants abroad, for exclusion of all non-naturalizable aliens, for the penalizing of unlawful entry of immigrants, and for enlargement of the work of naturalization and Americanization. He also renewed his recommendation for a constitutional amendment empowering Congress to pass child labor legislation.

Looking back over the twelve-month period covered by the report, Mr. Davis declared American labor had much to be thankful for, but that the federal government must continue its efforts toward "cooperation" and recognition of the mutual interest of employers and employees.

"This has been a great year," he said, "for the American worker. During this year starving workers have thronged the streets of a great European capital crying 'Bread! Bread!' The rifles of the police have been called into noisy action as men and women clamored for food with which to feed their dying children. The United States is enjoying economic peace unequalled in any nation of the world. The American workman everywhere is steadily employed. He is earning wages as high as he was ever paid before. He is working under conditions vastly improved. During the last year we took one great step forward through the elimination of the 12-hour day and the seven-day week in our great basic industry, the steel industry.

"It may now be said that we are within sight of the time when no workman in the United States will be forced to labor from sunrise to sunset and that we are within a few years of the day when we shall have realized the hope that each man shall have eight hours for work, eight hours for play, and eight hours for sleep. Truly, American labor has much to be thankful for."

"We must see to it that conditions in American industry continue to advance. We must encourage that spirit of cooperation, that recognition of mutual interest, which is already making great progress among our employers and our workers. We are learning that cooperation in industry is the surest and most feasible road to industrial peace, without which we can have no real prosperity. Today there are four parties involved in any industrial dispute—labor, ownership, management, and the public. All of these are mutually dependent, and the success of any given industry depends upon its operation along lines which will insure satisfactory returns to all of them."

HAT SHOP

Stock Has Been Kept on the Second Floor for More Than Hundred Years.

A man who attended the meetings of the International chamber of commerce came back by way of England. He wanted a hat and a business acquaintance, a man who had lived for years in England, the man who had been in the hat business since 1820.

The shop was small and somewhat dingy, but its windows held a hat which appealed. An old man appeared to be the only attendant.

"Wait a moment," said the shopkeeper, "and I'll bring you down a hat like the one in the window."

Striding down the hat meant a trip up a flight of stairs in the corner of the shop, and while the proprietor was away, the American looked about the place. There were hats on the shelves, but no hats were on display, except in the window.

Presently down came the proprietor with the hat. It seemed to be what the American wanted, but he asked to see some other colors. Back up the steps went the shopkeeper and the down he came with more hats.

The purchase was made, and while the hat was being wrapped the American made some inquiries regarding the business. He learned with astonishment that the hat store had been operated for more than a hundred years, that the present proprietor, the grandson of the founder, and that most of the stock of hats had been kept on the floor above the store ever since the business had been started.

LIKED FRANKNESS OF GIRL

Now New York Meteorist Thinks That There Is a Limit to All Things.

Cyril thought the world of Dr. Druilla. She was attractive and intelligent and possessed a quality that he considered above all prices—she was always frank and outspoken.

A few days ago Cyril took Dr. Druilla for a ride in his popular-priced runabout, and, anxious to show its merits, went faster than the law allowed. A motorcycle policeman noticed this and stopped him.

"You'd better slow down, feller," he said sternly, "or not rudely, 'Katie' is sayin' now," he cautioned and turned away.

Then Dr. Druilla spoke her piece. "These cops," she said in a clear, loud voice, "think they know it all. The policeman heard and came back. Removing his hat he took out a piece of paper and wrote on it: 'There's a summons, feller,' he said quietly. 'You were going twenty-eight.'"

Two days later Cyril had paid a fine of $25 and three days later he had a new girl.—New York Sun and Globe.

Electric Eel's Power

Enough electrical energy to spin the largest animal can be taken from the body of an electric eel, naturalists say, yet they have never been able to determine the exact source of the current. These eels abound in the marshes of Brazil and the Guianas, and the natives have such a respect for them that they frequently change the routes of roads and marauding trails after they have become infested with these reptiles. In spite of its external similarity, authorities claim that the electric eel has nothing to do with eels, but is in reality allied to the carp and catfish. It has electric organs running the whole length of the tail, which are modifications of the lateral muscles, and are supplied with numerous branches of the spinal nerves. These organs, consisting of longitudinal columns, each composed of a vast number of "electric plates." The posterior end of the organ is positive and the anterior end is negative, the current passing from the tail to the head.

Why Did They Leave?

That the ancient Chinese were settlers in Mexico is gradually becoming a historic certainty. Annals recently discovered at the foot of the famous Teotihuacan pyramids show inscriptions which were easily deciphered by experts at the Chinese embassy at Mexico City. Explorers 50 years ago saw something of Buddhist origin in some of the quaint customs of the people in old Chinese manuscripts in the Peking imperial palace there is mention of some land that was visited by Buddhist missionaries 500 years before Christ and where the new gospel was met with good reception. It is now thought that the land meant in these old scripts was Mexico. Still Columbus or Leif Ericson have not lost any of their adventures' glory.

Twenty Billion Buttons

There are 20,000,000,000 buttons manufactured in this country annually, and the industry has grown to such proportions that it equals, in dollars invested, and value of products, the cutlery industry or the manufacture of cloths and linoleum. America has almost a monopoly on the manufacture of buttons, the great majority of which are made in enormous quantities from the logs cut. This button grows plentifully in the northern part of South America and in Panama and provides the greater part of the buttons used in men's clothing. If all the buttons made in a year in the United States were distributed equally among the population each man, 182, with a few thousand left over for good measure.

MASCOTS OF THE STAGE

Actresses Have All Sorts of "Lucky" Knickknacks at Their Dressing Tables.

"What a lot of mascots!" That is one of the first things that most theatrical folk exclaim on looking at an actress' dressing table.

There are silver, ugly goldfish, some of all sorts and sizes, every kind of clay toy, and quaintly gay decorations, while first-night wigs, wishing luck, are pinned up on the dressing table or wall. These are some of the treasures.

Why such a collection? you may ask. The answer would almost invariably be that they were "lucky," that they had brought new contracts and better engagements at one time or another, and so they must find a place on the dressing table.

Stage folk, you see, are superstitious. One of the lots of things the beginner has to learn when she first enters the profession.

She must never on any account, whistle in the dressing room. It's terribly unlucky. If she should, she must go out, turn round three times outside the door, and then knock to be admitted again.

If she sees a pair of cotton or thread of any sort hanging on to any one else's clothes she should immediately pick it off and keep it, because it means a new contract for her.

Two very old stage superstitions are never to quote "Macbeth" and never to wear red flowers on the stage. This is seldom done, even now, and is a good reason for this superstition, because if the petals should drop they might cause players to slip on the stage.

A very lucky omen is for a blob of carmine grease paint to get accidentally smeared on the teeth while the actress is "making up" her lips. She wipes it off most carefully and lovingly.

And she collects and keeps all her little mascots, and takes them about with her from place to place. If she is on tour, putting them in just the same positions on her dressing table every week. For they've brought her luck, she says, and they're going to bring her still more!—London Tit-Bits.

ON THE THRONE 400 YEARS

When Charlemagne Died Body Was Clothed in Gold and Placed on Chair of State.

If you ever visit Aachen-Chapelle the guide will show you a marble throne on which the Emperor Charlemagne, or Charles the Great, sat for nearly 400 years. This is how he did it.

When Charlemagne died in the year 814, his body was placed in a golden robe and placed in a sitting position on his throne. On his head they put his crown. In his hand he held a scepter, and in his lap an open copy of the Bible.

Two centuries later the vault was opened and the body found to be well preserved. The vault was shut up for 200 years, when it was again opened and the body removed and placed in a gold and silver coffin, where it still remains in the cathedral.

For 300 years afterward the marble throne on which Charlemagne sat for 400 years was used in the coronation ceremonies of the German emperors.

When They're Regular. In the smoking car the conversation turned on the merits and demerits of various ways of preserving health. One stout, florid man held forth with great eloquence.

"Look at me," he shouted, "Never a day's sickness in my life, and all due to simple food. Why, gentlemen, he continued between sips of wine, "I am of the age of twenty to that of forty, I live on absolutely regular, big, no ostentatious delicacies, no late hours, no extravagances. Every day, summer and winter, I was in bed regularly at nine o'clock and up again at five in the morning. I worked from eight to one, then had dinner—a plain dinner, mark my words; after that an hour's rest."

"Excuse me, sir," interrupted the facetious stranger in the corner, "but what were you in for?"—Houston Post.

White Rhinoceros

The great white rhinoceros of the upper valley of the Nile has several remarkable characteristics which make it a creature between it and its smaller cousin, the ordinary rhinoceros of Africa, Asia and Malaysia. According to Dr. Herbert Lang of the American Museum of Natural History who recently returned after studying it in its native haunts, the lower is a striped with a shade of horn as a protection against the sharp spears upon which it feeds. Another strange thing is that the great horns which it carries are as long as the rear end—do not grow from the bone but from the skin. This is continuous under the base of the horn.

A Little Crowd

A little crowd had gathered in the great main studio to see his pictures before they were sent to the academy.

A girl strolled round turned to the artist and remarked: "Strange that artists are always women, isn't it?"

"Yes," said the artist, with a twinkle. "Because artists know that if they are so, 'retarded' the girl quietly, 'but it certainly shows that they know a lot about men.'—Boston Post.

Veterans in Danger

They've put a new twist to the letter carrier job. A business man in Philadelphia was delayed at the slow delivery of his important mail shot and killed a Confederate veteran, thinking he was a letter carrier.

Food should not be allowed

Food should not be allowed to stand for even a short time in a place where it is to be eaten. The risk of getting the highest may be dissolved and the poisoning result from eating the food.

OLD ENGLISH HAT STORE

Stock Has Been Kept on the Second Floor for More Than Hundred Years.

A man who attended the meetings of the international chamber of commerce came back by way of England. He wanted a hat, and a business acquaintance, a man who had lived for years in England, suggested a place to go.

The shop was small and somewhat dingy, but its windows held a hat which appealed. An old man appeared to be the only attendant. "Wait a moment," said the above keeper, "and I'll bring you down a hat like the one in the window."

Bringing down the hat meant a trip up a flight of stairs in the corner of the shop, and while the proprietor was gone the American looked about the place. There were hat boxes on the shelves, but no hats were on display, except in the window.

Presently down came the proprietor with the hat. It seemed to be what the American wanted, but he asked to see some other colors. Back up the steps went the shopkeeper and down he came with more hats.

The purchase was made, and while the hat was being wrapped the American made some inquiries regarding the business. He learned with astonishment that the hat store had been operated for more than a hundred years; that the present proprietor was the grandson of the founder, and that most of the stock of hats had been kept on the floor above the store ever since the business had been started.—Nation's Business.

LIKED FRANKNESS OF GIRL

Now New York Motorist Thinks That There is a Limit to All Things.

Cyril thought the world of Drusilla. She was attractive and intelligent and possessed a quality that he considered above all price—she was always frank and outspoken.

A few days ago Cyril took Drusilla for a ride in his popular-priced runabout, and, anxious to show its merits, went faster than the law allowed. A motorist policeman noticed this and stopped him.

"You'd better slow down, feller," he said severely but not rudely. "Take it easy, now," he cautioned and turned away.

Then Drusilla spoke her piece. "These cops," she said in a clear, loud voice, "think they know it all." The policeman heard and came back. Removing his hat he took out a piece of paper and wrote on it. "There's a summons, feller," he said quietly. "You were going twenty-eight."

Two days later Cyril had paid a fine of $25 and three days later he had a new girl.—New York Sun and Globe.

Electric Eel's Power.

Enough electrical energy to stun the largest animal can be thrown out of the body of an electric eel, naturalists say, yet they have never been able to determine the exact source of the current. These eels abound in the marshes of Brazil and the Guianas, and the natives have such a respect for them that they frequently change the routes of roads and marsh trails after they have become infested with the reptiles. In spite of the external similarity, authorities claim that the electric eel has nothing to do with eels, but is in reality allied to the carp and catfish. It has electric organs running the whole length of the tail, which are modifications of the lateral muscles, and are supplied with numerous branches of the spinal nerves. These organs consist of longitudinal columns, each composed of a vast number of "electric plates." The posterior end of the organ is positive and the anterior end is negative, the current passing from the tail to the head.

Why Did They Leave?

That the ancient Chinese were settlers in Mexico is gradually becoming a historic certainty. Amulets recently discovered at the foot of the famous Teotihuacan pyramids show inscriptions which were easily deciphered by experts at the Chinese embassy at Mexico City. Explorers 50 years ago saw something of Buddhist origin in some of the quaint customs of the people. In old Chinese manuscripts in the Peking Imperial palace there is mention of some land that was visited by Buddhist missionaries 800 years before Christ, and where the new gospel was met with good reception. It is now thought that the land meant in these old scripts was Mexico. Still Columbus or Leif Ericson have not lost any of their adventurers' glory.

Twenty Billion Buttons.

There are 20,000,000,000 buttons manufactured in this country annually, and the industry has grown to such proportions that it equals, in dollars invested, and value of products, the cutlery industry or the manufacture of oilcloths and linoleum. America has almost a monopoly on the manufacture of respectable ivory buttons, which are made in enormous quantities from the tusks of walrus. This nut grows plentifully in the northern port of South America and in Panama, and provides the greater part of the buttons used in men's clothing. If all the buttons made in a year in the United States were distributed equally among the population each man, woman and child would receive 182, with a few thousand left over for good measure.

Reassembling.

A girl had just completed her first week as a bank clerk and a friend asked her how she liked the work. "Oh, it's glorious," she replied. "I'm at a branch where nearly all the people we know have accounts, and it's so nice to see how little money some of your friends have in the bank."

Recording the Weather.

Recording the weather for registering maximum temperatures up to 150 degrees Fahrenheit are in use at some of the United States weather bureau stations in the desert regions of southeast California.

MASCOTS OF THE STAGE

Actresses Have All Sorts of "Lucky" Knickknacks on Their Dressing Tables.

"What a lot of mascots!" That is one of the first things that most theatrical folk exclaim on looking at an actress' dressing table.

There are queer, ugly goliaths, horseshoes of all sorts and sizes, every kind of day toy and quality, gay gauds, while first-night wigs, wishing luck, are pinned up on the looking glass or wall. These are just a few of the treasures.

Why such a collection? you may ask.

The answer would almost invariably be that they were "lucky," that they had brought new contracts and happy engagements at one time or another, and so they must find a place on the dressing table.

Stage folk, you see, are superstitious. There are lots of things the beginner has to learn when she first enters the profession.

She must never on any account, whistle in the dressing room. It's terribly unlucky. If she should, she must go out, turn round three times outside the door, and then knock to be admitted again.

If she sees a piece of cotton or thread of any sort hanging on to any one else's clothes she should immediately pick it off and keep it, because it means a new contract for her.

Two very old stage superstitions are never to quote "Macbeth" and never to wear real flowers on the stage. This is seldom done, even now. There may be a good reason for this superstition, because if the petals should drop they might cause players to slip on the stage.

A very lucky omen is for a blob of carmine grease paint to get accidentally smeared on the teeth while the actress is "making up" her lips. She wipes it off most carefully and lovingly!

ON THE THRONE 400 YEARS

When Charlemagne Died Body Was Clothed in Robes and Placed on Chair of State.

If you ever visit Aix-la-Chapelle the guide will show you a marble throne on which the Emperor Charlemagne, or Charles the Great, sat for nearly 400 years. This is how he died it.

When Charlemagne died in the year 814, they clothed his body in the imperial robes and placed it in a sitting position on his throne. On his head they put his crown, in his hand his scepter, and in his lap an open copy of the Bible.

Two centuries later the vault was opened and the body found to be well preserved. The vault was shut up for 200 years, when it was again opened and the body removed and placed in a gold and silver coffin, where it still remains in the cathedral.

When They're Regular.

In the amusing car conversation turned on the merits and demerits of various ways of preserving health. One stout, florid man held forth with great eloquence. "Look at me!" he shouted. "Never a day's sickness in my life, and all due to simple food. Why, gentlemen," he continued, "from the age of twenty to the age of forty I lived an absolutely regular life—no effeminate delicacies, no late hours, no extravagances. Every day, summer and winter, I was in bed regularly at nine o'clock and up again at five in the morning. I worked from eight to one, then had dinner—a dinner, mark my words; after that an hour's exercise; then—"

"Excuse me, sir," interrupted the facetious stranger in the corner, "but what were you in for?"—Houston Post.

White Rhinoceros.

The great white rhinoceros of the upper valley of the Nile has several remarkable characteristics which mark the difference between it and its smaller cousin, the ordinary rhinoceros of Africa, Asia and Malaysia. According to Dr. Herbert Lang of the American Museum of Natural History, who recently returned after studying it in its native haunts, its lower lip is armed with a plate of horn as a protection against the sharp sword-grass upon which it feeds. Another strange thing is that the great horns which it carries on its nose—the front one of which is about twice as long as the rear one—do not grow from the bone but from the skin. This is continuous under the base of the horn.

Little Crow Had Gathered.

A little crowd had gathered in the great man's studio to see his pictures before they were sent to the academy.

A girl strolled round, turned to the artist and remarked: "Strange that angels are always women, isn't it?"

"Yes," said the artist, with a twinkling smile, "but I don't know much about women, do I?"

"It may be so," retorted the girl quietly, "but it certainly shows that they know a lot about men!"—Houston Post.

Veterans in Danger.

They've put a new twist on the letter carrier job. A business man in Philadelphia, mentioned at the new delivery of his important mail, shot and killed a Confederate veteran, thinking he was a letter carrier.

FEATURE CORN IN CATALOGUE OF WILL & CO.

42nd Annual Catalogue of Pioneer Seed House Is Issued From the Press

Corn is featured in the 42nd annual catalogue of Oscar H. Will and Company, Bismarck's pioneer seed house, being issued from The Tribune press. There will be 200,000 copies of the catalogue, a handsome 16-page book with colored covers. It is profusely illustrated.

The first cover page bears pictures of golden flint, pioneer white dent and falcater semi-dent corn, and the booklet tells of specially adapted varieties of seed corn introduced, grown and bred for northwestern conditions.

A tribute to Oscar H. Will, founder of the company, is paid in the catalogue. "Oscar H. Will whose picture appears upon this page founded our business 43 years ago with a deep interest in and an earnest desire to aid Northwestern Agriculture," says the company's statement. "We feel that the years which have passed since then bear ample testimony to the value, honesty and progressiveness of our concern in its chosen field."

"For 43 years we have been breeding, selecting and introducing special varieties of corn, grain, vegetables, and nursery stock with qualities which adapted them especially to the Northwest, and we have given to Northwestern agriculture many of its most valuable standard varieties."

The scores of varieties of flower and garden seeds, bulbs, house plants and trees handled by the concern are described in the catalogue.

Home First THEN AUTO IS BABSON'S PLEA By NEA Service. Wellesley Hills, Mass., Dec. 11.—Home ownership should come before automobile ownership, yet only half those driving motor cars today can be said to live in their own homes! With this significant statement, Roger W. Babson, noted economist and statistician, opened a broadside against the unbalanced expansion of the automobile business in relation with the other basic industries.

"The time to buy an automobile comes when a person has a house paid for, or he at least has a fair equity in it," explains Babson. "He should have the equivalent of this in securities."

Lack of Balance. There is trouble ahead, he warns, when such a situation exists itself. "People used to buy a machine only when they could afford it. Now they cut down on clothing, household furnishings, mental advancement, for the sake of the car. The automobile is gradually lowering the standard of living and this is dangerous."

Automobile manufacturers have been killing the goose that lays the golden eggs, he adds, by this abnormal stimulation of their business. "We meet business troubles in this country," he explains, "when one industry gets out of line with the others. Remember, I believe in the automobile industry and I think the country owes a great debt to it as a permanent business industry. But the best thing in the world can be overdone. The soundest prosperity consists in keeping a balance among all basic industries."

Half Luxuries. Despite the contention of auto manufacturers that the automobile is a necessity, Babson estimates half the cars on the streets today may be considered luxuries. His idea when a motor car becomes a luxury is this: "When an automobile increases a man's efficiency it's a necessity. But when it does not do so, or when the money for a car, if invested in something else would increase the man's efficiency more than the machine, then it becomes a luxury."

"When a workman goes to his factory in a Ford, leaves it outside for the day and thinks he's saving car fare, when the depreciation alone on the car is 30 cents a day, then that car certainly is a luxury."

Budget Will Tell. The answer to the whole situation, believes Babson, is the institution of the budget in every home. "Every man should have a budget, whereby he definitely puts aside certain proportions of his income for rent, food, education, pleasure, savings, and other things that go into the average family life. Thus he can soon see whether he ought to have an auto."

"If he can continue to save a reasonable amount for a rainy day, not cut down his standard of living, and still have an auto—fine."

"But to run up savings or cut down the standard of living for an automobile is a waste and unsafe."

"It just means that he is putting the matter of keeping a budget. By this means every man can answer the question."

PETITIONS FOR LEMKE SENT

Room for Ambassadorship Reaches Nation's Capital

The Lemke boom for ambassador to Mexico has reached Washington. A dispatch to The Grand Forks Herald from the capital says: Petitions from "representative citizens" of North Dakota, urging that William Lemke be appointed United States Ambassador to Mexico have been presented to President Coolidge by Senator E. F. Ladd. This announcement was made today by D. H. McArthur, secretary of the Lemke committee, after a consultation with the senator as a result of queries as to the truth of reports received by the Grand Forks Herald that the former attorney general of North Dakota and Nonpartisan League leader was being boosted for the Mexican embassy. "Senator Ladd has received a great many communications and petitions from representative citizens of North Dakota requesting that Mr. Lemke be appointed ambassador to Mexico and in accordance with his usual custom he has referred the matter to the executive department for such action as it may deem fit," Mr. McArthur said.

Bankruptcy Petition for Discharge and Order of Voluntary Surrender. In the District Court of the United States, District of North Dakota. In the Matter of Anders Alfred Erickson, Bankrupt. To the Honorable Judges of the District Court of the United States for the District of North Dakota, Anders Alfred Erickson of Wilton in the County of Burleigh and State of North Dakota, do hereby respectfully represent that on the 5th day of September, 1923, last he was adjudged bankrupt under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy, that he has failed to pay all his debts and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

WHEREFORE, he prays that he may be discharged from all debts, and that his estate may be sold and the proceeds distributed to his creditors in accordance with the provisions of the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy.

Dated this 21st day of November A. D. 1923. Anders Alfred Erickson, Bankrupt.

ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON. District of North Dakota. ss. On this 21st day of December, A. D. 1923, on reading the petition for discharge and order of voluntary surrender of the above-named bankrupt, it is ordered by the court, that a hearing be had upon the same on the 11th day of February, A. D. 1924, at ten o'clock, forenoon, and that notice thereof be published in The Bismarck Tribune, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court, that the Referee shall send, by mail, to all known creditors, copies of said petition, and the order addressed to them, their places of residence as stated in the petition, and that the said Referee, Judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at Bismarck, in the County of Burleigh, State of North Dakota, on the 5th day of December, A. D. 1923. (Seal of the Court.) J. A. Montgomery, Clerk. By Joag Geston, Deputy Clerk.

FATALLY INJURED. Garrison, Dec. 11.—Anton Bittz, a young man of near Cahay, who has been employed by Stevens Brothers as water tank driver, was so badly injured last Wednesday noon by the upsetting of the tank he was driving that he died at a Minot hospital the next evening.

ROAD CLEARING PLAN. A. J. Williston, N. D., Dec. 12. Officers of the Williston Commercial club have approved a proposal to keep the state highway open for automobile travel during the winter months. KRAUSE WINS OVER KNAUFF

Grand Forks, Dec. 12.—Battling Krause of Fargo won over Johnny Knauff of Moorhead by a technical knockout in the eighth round of what was to have been a ten round battle here last night. The Moorhead lad's seconds refused to let him answer the bell at the eighth after he had taken a terrific beating for three rounds. In that time he crashed to the floor six times from hard right handed smashes to the jaw.

DISBARMENT PROCEEDINGS INSTITUTED

Disbarment proceedings have been ordered instituted against William Maloney, Fargo attorney, by the supreme court before Judge Wolfe of Wahpeton as referee. A prosecutor will be named by the state bar board. Charges made against Maloney by the bar board include allegations that he solicited bankruptcy business and encouraged persons to go into bankruptcy and issued collection notices in form of summons to court which created a false impression on debtors, according to the bar board's complaint. Maloney has filed no answer, but has considerable time in which to do so. Yes, we deliver corn cobs for $1.00 per load. Make fine kindling. First calls first served. Phone 364B.

MILL BOARD IS NECESSARY, IS VIEW TAKEN

Many in Administration Circles Believe Carley Resignation Shows It

The conclusion is drawn in administration circles here from the resignation of J. E. Carley as member of the board of managers of the state mill and elevator at Grand Forks, that the legislature acted wisely in naming a special board to manage the mill rather than leave that duty solely upon the industrial commission. Mr. Carley, in tendering his resignation, said that the duties of the office required more time than he could spare and attend to his banking business. It was pointed out at the capital that if a resident of Grand Forks found such duty required a great deal of time, it would be poor policy to entrust the management to the Industrial Commission in Bismarck, especially when members must devote a large share of their time to their respective positions of Governor, Attorney General and Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor.

It had been reported here, although there was no official statement on the subject, that Carley disagreed with the policies of C. E. Austin, general manager of the mill, and that while such differences had not reached the Industrial Commission it might have been expected that the commission would have felt the necessity of changing Mr. Carley, until he has had a fair opportunity to demonstrate what may be done with the mill. G. L. Ireland, who was formally named to the position at a meeting of the Industrial Commission late yesterday, is head of the Ireland Lumber Company in Grand Forks, and has been chairman of the mill and elevator committee of the Grand Forks Commercial Club.

LABOR HERE BEST PAID SAYS DAVIS

Cabinet Member Urges Continuation of Efforts Toward Cooperation

Washington, Dec. 12.—Legislation touching the interests of laboring men and women at many points was recommended today by Secretary Davis of the Labor Department in his annual report.

Among other things he asked Congress to provide a less complicated method of handling railway labor disputes than that now administered under the Railroad Labor Board; to give the Labor Department greater authority and facilities for enforcing better working conditions generally; to make appropriations for improvement of the immigration stations at New York, Boston, Seattle and San Francisco; and to enact a complete new "alien code," providing for selection of immigrants abroad for exclusion of all non-naturalizable aliens, for the penalizing of unlawful entry of immigrants, and for enlargement of the work of naturalization and Americanization. He also renewed his recommendation for a constitutional amendment empow-

COMMANDANT?

Commander Frederick C. Billard, assistant to the commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, has been mentioned as possibly the next commandant. Commander Billard was born in Washington, D. C., in 1875.

The Congress to pass child labor legislation. Looking back over the twelve-month period covered by the report, Mr. Davis declared American labor had much to be thankful for, but that the federal government must continue its efforts toward "cooperation" and recognition of the mutual interest of employers and employees. "This has been a great year," he said, "for the American worker. During this year starved workers have thronged the streets of a great European capital crying 'Bread! Bread!'"

The rifles of the police have been called into play as men and women clamored for food with which to feed their dying children. The United States is enjoying economic peace unequaled in any nation of the world. The American workman everywhere is steadily employed. He is earning wages as high as he was ever paid before. He is working under conditions vastly improved. During the last year we took one great step forward through the elimination of the 12-hour day and the seven-day week in our great basic industry, the steel industry.

"It may now be said that we are within sight of the time when no workman in the United States will be forced to labor from sunrise to sunset and that we are within a few years of the day when we shall have realized the hope that each man shall have eight hours for work, eight hours for play, and eight hours for sleep. Truly, American labor has much to be thankful for."

"We must see to it that conditions in American industry continue to advance. We must encourage that spirit of cooperation, that recognition of mutual interest, which is already making great progress among our employers and our workers. We are learning that cooperation in industry is the surest and most feasible road to industrial peace, without which we can have no real prosperity. Today there are four parties involved in any industrial dispute—labor, ownership, management, and the public. All of these are mutually dependent, and the success of any given industry depends upon its operation along lines which will insure satisfactory returns to all of them."

ASK HEARING IN NO. DAKOTA

Fargo Body Would Have U. S. Tariff Hearing There

Fargo, Dec. 12.—The U. S. tariff commission will be asked to hold a general hearing on the wheat and flax tariff question in Fargo, and a call will be sent out at once for a state-wide conference of several far-ist committees in the state as the next move on the part of North Dakota to present its case for an increase in tariffs before the federal commission.

This agreement was reached at a meeting of the tariff committee of the Fargo Commercial club. Rex E. Willard, farm economist, North Dakota Agricultural college, presented a report of his recent trip to Washington during which he presented evidence on costs of production of wheat on North Dakota farms at a preliminary hearing before the tariff commission.

SWEDISH MINES SUFFER FROM RUHR TROUBLE

Iron Ore Trade with Germany Has Collapsed During Occupancy of Ruhr

AMERICA AIDS SOME

Furnaces in France and England Not Suitable for Reduction of Swedish Ore

KIRUNA, North of Arctic Circle, Sweden, Dec. 12.—France's occupation of the Ruhr, and the resultant collapse of the Swedish iron ore trade with Germany, have brought hardship to Sweden's great northern iron mines and the result is that France in the large Arctic areas of north Sweden and Norway which have been the payrolls of the iron districts for their existence, in 1922 and 1923 held used to send three ships of ore daily to the Norwegian port of Narvik. At the present time there is scarcely a shipload a week. Germany formerly took the greater part of this ore. She has the furnaces to handle it, but her purchases have ceased since the flurry in the Ruhr. England and France have no furnaces suitable to the reduction of the Swedish ore. The Bethlehem Steel Company has furnaces which are capable of using this ore, and some of it goes to America. Sweden exported nearly 5,000,000 metric tons of iron ore in 1922 and over 60 per cent of this went to Germany. As early as 1912 Germany bought over 3,000,000 tons of Swedish iron ore for the Ruhr furnaces.

The railway which runs from Lulea, on the Gulf of Bothnia, to Narvik, north of the Arctic Circle in Norway, lives on the ore traffic. It hauls export ore from Kiruna to Narvik, and from Gellivare and other mines further south to Lulea. But the latter port freezes, and in midwinter the export ore reaches Lulea entirely through the Norwegian port, Narvik. Ore and wood products are practically the only freight which this great section of Lapland affords its single railway, which is entirely electrified and is the most northern electric railway in the world. Cities of 10,000 people have sprung up here in the heart of Lapland at Kiruna and Gellivare, where mountains of iron ore are being demolished by gigantic electric shovels and rushed to tidewater in steel dumpers. These load directly into steamers at Lulea and Narvik, after the manner that the Mesaba Range pours its ore into steamers at Superior, Wisconsin, for the use of furnaces in Indiana or Pennsylvania.

FEELS CONFIDENT

Fargo, Dec. 12.—Congressmen and Senators from the spring wheat states of the Northwest will learn the details of the proposed accelerated diversification program originated at the North Dakota Agricultural College at a conference to be held at Washington Friday when the information will be presented to them by a committee headed by President John Lee Coulter of the Agricultural College of Fargo.

President Coulter left Minot this morning for the national capital at the request of agricultural leaders of the states involved.

The plan was enlarged to include the spring wheat area in North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Mon-

THIS LITTLE WORLD

BY CASUAL STROLLER

New York, Dec. 12.—Down on the lower end of Manhattan Island a skyscraper is rising.

In its outer appearance it is no different from the scores of others that raise their giant heads to the sky. But this one is different.

It is an artificial human being, product of the mind of man. Its thousands of arms, far outflung, reach from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Through its giant skeleton of steel, encased in flesh of brick and stone, run the nerves of wire, carrying their messages of joy and sorrow, of pain and well-being, of death and life.

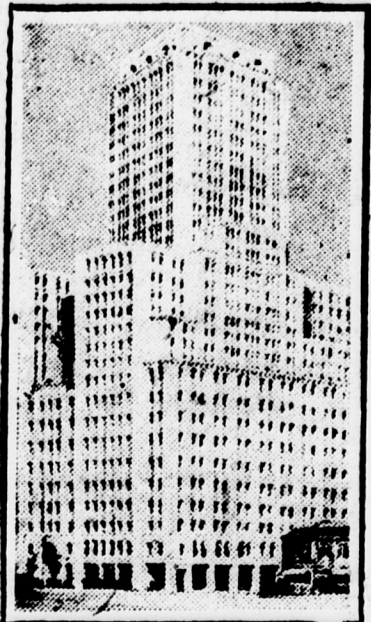

For this skyscraper is the new home of the New York Telephone Company, now under course of construction.

Beneath its roof will be housed more telephone equipment than is found in many European countries, enough to serve as many telephones as there are in a city the size of Cincinnati.

Upon seven of its acre-size floors will be bank upon bank, and row upon row of the new machine-switching apparatus, which will serve 120,000 telephones. To handle all these phones in the completion of calls from manual stations, only 400 operators will be required.

In the cable vaults of the four-story basement will be a total of 432 recovered telephone cables, containing 692,000 separate and individual telephone wires, grouped in sheaths no larger than a man's wrist. From this meeting place the wires fan out as trunk lines to cover a city and nation.

In the basement also will be a storage battery and charging plant capable of furnishing enough electric current to light the homes of a large town. The batteries weigh almost 500 tons, and contain enough current to light 18,000 25-watt lamps for eight hours. Thirty-five motor generators will keep the batteries charged. These generators have a 2000-horse-power capacity.

Above the first seven floors will be the business and administrative offices where 7000 people will spend their working hours.

Altogether the building will be 29 stories, 404 feet high. It will rise straight for 17 stories, and then, in accordance with the zoning laws, the remaining 12 floors will be in a setback.

A total of 680,000 square feet of working space will be provided, of which the machine-switching equipment will require about 280,000 feet.

A long way, indeed, has the telephone traveled from the day when 15 boys ran the lone switchboard of New York.

tona at a conference held in Minneapolis last week and now calls for $25,000,000 appropriation from Congress to be loaned to farmers of the spring wheat area for the purpose of breeding stock. The maximum loan to an individual would be $1,000 and the rate of interest six percent, one of which would be used for part of the administration expense, one percent for a guaranty fund for the loans and the remaining four percent to be paid to the government for interest on the loans.

Loans would be made for a maximum of five years. Four classes of people would be eligible for loans. These are: farmers residing on their own farms; renters operating under a three-year contract providing a workable arrangement for handling livestock secured under the plan; farm owners holding suitable contracts with renters and boys and girls' club members.

At the Washington conference the bill will be drafted in its final form and leaders selected to introduce it into the house and senate. Mr. Coulter stated before departing this morning, confidence as to the bill's favorable reception and passage by both houses was also voiced by Mr. Coulter.

Secretary Work Outlines Plan

In Washington

Encroachment of White Settlers Causes Needed Changes in Policies, He Says

Washington, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The advisory committee on Indian affairs recently appointed by the Secretary of the Interior as a semi-official body to assist the government in the solution of problems affecting the 340,000 Indian population of the country met here today with approximately 60 of the committee's 100 members in attendance to consider questions of policy.

Secretary Work in opening the meeting declared that "the pressing frontier, the insistent encroachment of white settlers and business men and the building of railroads has materially affected conditions as they apply to the Indian and made it necessary for the government to study means for their protection and welfare."

He set forth the following questions for discussion:

Relation of the Indian to the government including administration of their affairs as affecting their condition, rights and property.

The advisability of the release of Indians from government control.

Improvement of the health service including the advisability of increasing the number of physicians and other facilities.

The centralization of many of the Indian bureau activities among the 28 states having Indian population under a plan by which the state governments would assume responsibility through their boards of health, school superintendents and other agencies "for the improvement, conduct and supervision of restricted Indians."

Under such a plan the secretary said, the Indian Bureau would administer only treaty rights and land titles and collect Indian funds, turning over to the states such sums as it would otherwise spend for services to be administered by the state.

GEN. HARDIN, U. S. A., DIES

St. Augustine, Fla., Dec. 12.—Brigadier-General Martin Hardin, U. S. A., retired, who was born in Morgan County, Illinois, June 26, 1837, died at his St. Augustine home early today after an illness of several months.

General Hardin was the last survivor of the class of 1859 from West Point, the class to which General Joe Wheeler belonged. He fought in the war between states and at the second battle of Bull Run was wounded in a skirmish with Moseby's guerrillas, losing his right arm.

General Hardin was decorated five times for valiant service.
